Plans Advanced For Multi-million Water Project

Westmoreland Authority to Raise Money for $250 Million Program

A $250 million plan to bring pure mountain spring water to four Western Pennsylvania counties was unveiled in Pittsburgh today.

The far-reaching plan was proposed by John Ware, owner and operator of water systems in 22 states. The system would bring soft water to many communities in Westmoreland, Fayette, Washington and Allegheny counties.

Preliminary plans call for construction of a gigantic 134 billion-gallon reservoir near Indian Head in Fayette County and a gravity-flow underground aqueduct that will carry the pure water across the four counties.

Families, Ware said, will enjoy purer water, better tasting food, lower soap and detergent costs, longer wear of clothing, easier washing and an adequate supply of water at all times.

To Get Pure Water

In outlining his ambitious proposal, Ware commented, "Nature's pure water can be made available to families many miles away at a reasonable cost with present day engineering techniques."

Ware, operator of the South Pittsburgh Water Co., Citizens Water Co. of Washington, Pa., and the Monongahela Valley Water Co., said the project "is still in the planning stage."

He said engineers are working on a "feasibility report" that will determine the exact cost of the project.

"When the project is launched, it will take an estimated four years before the mountain water will flow to homes in the area," he said.

The project will be financed by bonds issued by the Westmoreland Water Authority. A big dam and a series of valleys will form the reservoir on Indian Creek in Fayette and Westmoreland counties. The reservoir will be fed by the Indian and Laurel Hill Creeks.

Third Largest

Ware said an underground aqueduct nearly 11½ feet in diameter will transport pure water along a 42 mile stretch 800 feet below the surface.

Ware said the reservoir would be the third largest in the nation. The top of the dam would measure a half mile across with a depth of 320 feet.

Ware said the "feasibility report" being worked on by the Harrisburg firm of Gannett, Fleming, Corddry and Carpenter would be completed within 60 to 90 days. Financing arrangements, engineering plans and subscription of water distribution agencies to the project would take an additional eight months to a year.

He said $500,000 has been spent so far on the plan, which was eight years in the making.

Car Pools for Parochial Pupils; Bus Line Quits

ST. MARYS, Pa. (UP)—Parents of parochial school students in nearby Benzinger Twp. began forming car pools today to transport their children to the Roman Catholic high school and grammar schools here.

The Detsch Bus Co., claiming it has not been paid for transportation furnished the parochial students since September, served notice last week its buses would cease picking up the parochial children effective April 1.

About 250 parents met here Thursday night at Central Catholic High School and by majority vote decided to form car pools to furnish transportation for the 400 children involved. They appointed area committees to arrange for the necessary automobiles.

The car pool decision was not unanimous however. About one-fourth of the parents opposed it and walked out of the meeting.

The parents also voiced support of a bill Elk County Rep. William F. Renwick said he will introduce in the General Assembly next Monday to provide free bus transportation for all public and parochial students. The Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruled last year that parochial students are not eligible for public-paid bus transportation under the present school code.

McKeesport Gets $333,157 Grant for Redevelopment

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today announced approval of a $333,157 state grant to the McKeesport Redevelopment Authority to carry out a slum clearance and redevelopment project in the city's first ward near the Youghiogheny River.

The grant was presented to officials of the authority at a brief ceremony today in the office of Commerce Secretary William R. Davlin.

The National Tube Co. eventually will purchase 28 acres of the 30 which will be cleared. The firm plans an expansion program with employment of about 1,500 additional employes. The rest of the site tentatively is earmarked for a new city hall and an adjoining parking lot.

The redevelopment site currently is heavily blighted and contains areas which are flooded by the river at times, Davlin said. Local contributions match the state allocation and the authority also has a reservation on a federal grant of $1,236,105—double the combined state and local contribution.

Little Hope Is Given for Woman Kidnaped in Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (UP)—A U.S. official reported from the wild country southeast of Tehran today that the missing wife of a slain American has been abandoned by the bandits who kidnaped her.

Clark Gregory, chief of the U.S. Point Four mission to Iran, reported by telephone from the town of Zahedan that Mrs. Anita Carroll, of Issaquah, Wash., no longer was with the four fleeing bandits who killed her husband, another American and two Iranians in an ambush in remote Baluchistan last Sunday.

"There is only a 50-50 chance she is still alive," Gregory said.

Gregory is on the scene directing the search by more than 1,000 Iranian police and army troops. Zahedan is the point nearest the ambush site 800 miles southeast of Tehran which has communications with the capital.

Iranian officials reported earlier that the kidnapers were fleeing across the Red Stone Mountains of Baluchistan toward the Pakistan frontier in a desperate attempt to evade the tightening police net.

Gregory said the gendarmerie at first lost the bandits' trail and then picked it up again Thursday night after a heavy rainstorm.

He said the manhunt was being conducted over "the wildest country I've ever seen."

Man Narrowly Escapes When Train, Truck Hit

Philip Vignoli, of Valley Inn, near Monongahela, narrowly escaped serious injury about noon yesterday when a locomotive struck his light truck at the 10th street crossing in Monongahela.

He was released from Monongahela Hospital after treatment for brush burns of the forehead and bruises about the legs.

The pickup truck was demolished.

Vignoli was driving the truck into the yards of the Patterson Supply Co. when the accident occurred. The vehicle was dragged about 75 feet and came to rest against the home of Carl Tarabrella, of 100 Tenth street.

The truck tore up the Tarabrella lawn, scraped shingles from the side of the building, broke loose a section of the rain spout and damaged the foundation of the house.

No estimate was made of the damage to the house.

$35 Stolen from Park Hotel Here

A burglar entered the Park Hotel at 955 Schoonmaker avenue sometime yesterday and escaped with about $35 in silver, Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka said today.

The burglar was discovered yesterday morning but was not reported to police by Michael Mikan, the proprietor, until 3:30 yesterday afternoon.

How entry was made is being investigated by police.

Presbytery Approves Continuation of Study At Rehoboth Church

Redstone Presbytery last night authorized a special investigating committee to continue its "relationship" with Rehoboth Church in Rostraver Township "for the purpose of keeping in close touch with the development and progress of the church."

The Presbytery, a governing body of the Presbyterian Church, took the action by unanimously adopting a report submitted by the investigating committee during a meeting in West Newton.

The committee asked in its report that "it be vested with jurisdiction to visit Rehoboth Church, its worship services and session meetings. . ."

The report was the result of two months of investigation by the committee comprised of seven ministers and laymen from the Redstone Presbytery.

Political Changes

The investigation was touched off when the Rev. Nelson Jackaway, Rehoboth pastor, charged from the pulpit that political elements were agitating for his removal because of his activities in "Operation: Crusade" — a racket-busting movement of district ministers.

Dissenting members of the congregation — none of whom has ever been identified — reportedly appealed to the Presbytery for an investigation. Mr. Jackaway also requested the probe.

In the report, which the Presbytery made public in its entirety, no mention was made of "Operation: Crusade" or of Mr. Jackaway's charges referring to the rackets and politics.

Instead the report stated:

"While the Rev. Mr. Jackaway has shown a lack of discretion at times from the pulpit and has been somewhat tactless in his dealings with some of the members of his congregation, we find no malice in him."

Referring to Mr. Jackaway's critics, the report had this to say:

'Quick to Criticize'

"Those who have complained about the situation in the church have perhaps misconstrued things which have been said, have been possibly too quick to criticize, but we feel that in their objections they have been motivated by a deep concern for the maintenance of the peace and purity of the church."

Mr. Jackaway today had no comment to make on the report "because it was agreed that all publicity should come from the Presbytery spokesman."

Mr. Jackaway also declined to comment on the omission of "Operation: Crusade" from the report. He did say, though, that he "definitely" intends to remain at Rehoboth.

Among other things, the report asked "that a spirit of humbleness be recommended to the Rev. Mr. Jackaway in his dealings with the congregation and that a spirit of forbearance and charity be recommended to the members of the congregation."

Signing the report were David L. Say, moderator; Joseph E. Heckel, secretary, Donald C. Smith, Oliver R. Stang, Robert L. George, Thomas H. Hudson Jr., and Clinton M. Puff.

The report, in its entirety, follows:

"Your commission having asked the Lord's guidance in its activities has thoroughly and to the best of its ability in accordance with church law investigated the

Tarrs Woman Sent to Jail For Embezzling

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A woman bookkeeper who profited from shares of stock in a Uniontown bank purchased with embezzled funds from the institution was described as "intelligent" by a judge who sentenced her.

Mary Joe Anne Ryland, former head bookkeeper of the Gallitin National Bank, was sentenced to a year and a day in prison after she pleaded guilty Thursday to taking $17,500 from the bank.

Federal Judge Joseph P. Wilson admitted admiration when he learned that $433 worth of stock purchased with embezzled funds has risen in value to $6050.

"It takes an intelligent person to do what she did and get away with it for a year," Judge Willson said."

The 28-year-old Miss Ryland, employed by the bank for 10 years, pleaded guilty to taking the money from inactive accounts and transferring it to her personal account. She said aside from the stock purchase she used the money to buy a new car and living expenses.

Miss Ryland, of Tarrs, Westmoreland County, was arrested last January. She returned to the bank the stock as part of the $6720 restitution to date.

"It's sort of an ironic thing," the judge commented when informed of the stock return.

School Jointure Discussed in Charleroi Area

Representatives of eight district schools have taken initial steps toward the formation of a possible joint school district in the Charleroi area.

Districts represented at a meeting held in Fallowfield Township School Wednesday included Allenport, Charleroi, Dunlevy, Fallowfield Township, North Charleroi, Speers, Stockdale and Twilight.

Following the joint meeting, the representatives are to discuss the proposed merger with their respective School Boards.

David L. Glunt, superintendent of Charleroi schools, discussed the purposes of a joint school district. He said such a jointure is the result of a contract signed by member boards making up the district.

In a jointure, he said, each school district continues to exist and levy taxes in its area, having two main responsibilities to the jointure. First, each district is represented on the joint board committee which would direct the operation of all the schools. Second, each district would contribute to the joint board treasury its proportionate share of the cost of operations.

Charles L. Palomaki

Charles Palomaki Retires After 46 Years on Job

A familiar face will be missing from the Monessen banking scene after today.

At three o'clock this afternoon, Charles L. Palomaki retired as an assistant cashier of the Mellon National Bank and Trust Co., to mark the end of his 46 years in the banking profession in Monessen.

Palomaki, who was born in Ylistaro, Finland, came to the United States in 1902. After becoming a Monessen resident, he first became associated with the banking profession as a messenger with the former First National Bank and Trust Co. He later became a bookkeeper and then an assistant manager. In 1932, he joined Peoples National Bank and Trust Company, which now is the Monessen office of Mellon Bank.

Last night his associates at the bank honored him with a farewell dinner at Park Casino. John R. Abernethy, assistant vice-president, presented the honored guest with a gift in behalf of fellow employes. Mrs. Kzenia Palomaki, his wife, was also a guest.

The couple has one son, Kermit, and two daughters, Elna and Enid. The family lives at 420 Chestnut street.

As for his future plans, Palomaki said he is "just going to take it easy."

Lawler Critical Of Investigation

HARRISBURG (UP)—Highways Secretary Joseph J. Lawler has sharply criticised a Republican legislative proposal for a $100,000 investigation of the state's road building plans.

Lawler appeared before the director of the Associated Pennsylvania Contractors Thursday with the department's 11 district engineers to outline the department's program.

"I'm always willing to cooperate," he said, "but that $100,000 is strictly a political slush fund to start off the next (Republican) campaign. There's no reason to throw that $100,000 down the drain. It won't be the first time I'm investigated, either."

Council Orders Teamsters Boss To Stand Trial

WASHINGTON (UP)—The AFL-CIO high command today suspended Teamsters President Dave Beck as an AFL-CIO officer and directed an investigation of his 1,540,000 member union.

The Executive Council also ordered Beck to stand trial on charges of "bringing the labor movement into disrepute."

Beck is an AFL-CIO vice president and member of the Executive Council. He did not attend today's council meeting.

The actions were announced after a meeting at AFL-CIO headquarters that lasted less than two hours.

The council is made up of AFL-CIO President George Meany, Secretary-Treasurer William Schnitzler, and 26 vice presidents, including Beck.

The council directed Meany to file charges against Beck as a vice president of the federation "for his action in bringing the labor movement into disrepute and his failure to explain the many charges brought against him regarding the mishandling of union funds."

Probe Is Ordered

Beck was suspended pending the disposition of these charges.

The council also directed the AFL-CIO's ethical practices committee "to investigate the situation in the Teamsters to determine whether or not the Teamsters Union is substantially dominated or controlled by corrupt influences."

The action against Beck was unprecedented in the AFL and CIO in that the action involved an officer so high in the labor movement.

The teamsters Union is the fourth to be investigated by the AFL-CIO ethical practices committee on charges of corruption.

If the ethical practices committee and the Executive Council should find the Teamsters to be dominated by corruption, it could lead to suspension of the union from the AFL-CIO.

Three small unions—the Distillery Workers, the Laundry Workers, and the Allied Industrial Workers unions — are presently on notice to "clean house" or be thrown out of the AFL-CIO on corruption charges.

Upon a finding that a union is dominated by corruption the council has authority to direct it to take certain steps to clean house and to suspend it from the AFL-CIO if it fails to do so.

Meany called today's meeting last Tuesday shortly after Beck refused on grounds of possible self-incrimination to answer Senate rackets committee charges that he "may have misappropriated" more than $322,000 in Teamsters money.

Soot from Hospital Stack Is Reduced

A stack spray dust collection system has been installed at the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital, it was learned today.

The system will reduce soot blown from the hospital stack.

Harry Cowell, hospital engineer, says the hospital collects 70 per cent more stack solids than were removed prior to the installation of the stack spray.

Trouble Piling Up for Biggest Teamster Bosses

WASHINGTON (UP) — Troubles piled up today for the Teamsters Union's biggest bosses.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council met to punish Teamsters President Dave Beck for hiding behind the Fifth Amendment in this week's appearance before the Senate Rackets Committee.

sters President Dave Beck for hiding behind the Fifth Amendment in this week's appearance before the Senate Rackets Committee.

Beck's heir apparent, Teamsters Vice President James R. Hoffa, was arraigned on federal bribery charges, and his trial was set for May 27, though it may be postponed.

Hoffa pleaded innocent to charges that he tried to bribe a rackets committee investigator. Also pleading innocent was his fellow defendant, Miami attorney Hyman I. Fischbach. Both remained at liberty, Hoffa under $25,000 bond and Fischbach under $10,000.

Judge Richmond B. Keech set their trial for May 27, though their attorney preferred the first week in June. Keech said to take up possibility of a postponement with the court's assignment commissioner.

The rackets committee meanwhile investigated a batch of new charges, including one that Beck has been involved in strikebreaking and collusion with management.

Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the committee is looking into possible collusion and strikebreaking through Nathan W. Shefferman, Beck's friend and purchasing agent.

Leader Invites Top Legislative Officials to 'Sales Tax' Parley

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader has invited Republican and Democratic legislative leaders to confer with him Sunday night in an attempt to compromise differences on the 3 per cent sales tax passed this week by the General Assembly.

Invitations were extended 18 leaders of the two parties—12 to Republicans and eight to members of the governor's party. All except one went to lawmakers. The exception was Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom.

The supper conference apparently was in answer to Republican criticism that the governor had not asked the GOP leadership, which controls both branches of the General Assembly, to confer with him on tax matters this session. Leader explained that he made no attempt to confer with members of the opposition party on the sales tax bill because it was his belief the measure would wind up in a conference committee before clearing the Legislature.

"When it didn't, we planned this meeting," the governor told his regular weekly news conference late Thursday.

"This is now a matter for compromise," he said.

A 36-page analysis of the sales tax bill prepared by the state Justice Department will form the basis for Sunday night's discussion, the governor said.

Leader declined to discuss what course he would take if he is unsuccessful in his attempt to have the sales tax proposal recalled for revision. He has until midnight April 4 to decide on one of three courses—signing the bill into law, letting it become law without his signature, or vetoing it.

"The only thing I can say is I won't tear it up," the governor said.

The governor told a joint session of the Legislature this week that the version of the sales tax which cleared the two chambers "begins to smack of greed and tax-dodging." He objected pointedly to amendments added in the Senate which give public utilities and the shipbuilding industry in the state additional exemptions from the tax.

The conferees will include:

Democrats — Lt. Gov. Roy E. Furman: Sen. Joseph M. Barr, Democratic state chairman; Senate Minority Leader John H. Dent (Westmoreland); Sen. Frank W. Ruth (Berks); House Minority Leader Albert S. Readinger (Berks), and House Minority Whip Hiram G. Andrews (Cambria).

Portland Mayor, Other Officials Indicted; Face Several Charges

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP) — Mayor Terry D. Schrunk of Portland said today he will demand an immediate trial on bribery and perjury charges filed against him by a grand jury.

"I am convinced that I will be acquitted of these ridiculous charges," Schrunk said.

The Multnomah County grand jury returned a total of 7 indictments Thursday against Schrunk, District Attorney William L. Langley, Clifford O. Bennett, operator of a night club, and police officer Richard Sutter.

Schrunk, Langley and Bennett recently appeared in Washington as witnesses before the Senate Rackets Committee.

Schrunk surrendered to two indictments specifically charging him with receiving and agreeing to receive a bribe, and with perjury. He posted $1,000 bond on each charge.

Langley was accused of conspiracy to commit the felony of receiving and agreeing to receive a bribe as an executive officer, conspiring to hinder and obstruct justice, and for incompetency, corruption, malfeasance and delinquency in office. He posted $1000 bond on each of the three charges.

Several witnesses testified before the Senate committee that Schrunk, when he was sheriff of Multnomah County, had accepted a $500 bribe from Bennett during the course of a gambling raid.

Schrunk denied under oath that he had taken any bribe. The indictment did not specify any amount.

Bennett invoked the Fifth Amendment when the Senate committee questioned him about the matter. The grand jury accused him of perjury as a result of its own investigation.

The grand jury also charged Sutter with perjury.

The officer testified about the alleged bribe before a grand jury last summer. In November, he signed an affidavit recanting his testimony that he had seen Schrunk pick up an envelope supposed to contain the $500.

Langley was quizzed by the Senate committee about an alleged tie-up with Teamsters Union officials and racketeers to "take over" gambling and other vice operations in Portland. He invoked the Fifth Amendment.

The grand jury handed down four other indictments, but they were not immediately disclosed.

Convoy Sailing Through Canal; Crisis not Over

By UNITED PRESS

A convoy sailed through the Suez Canal today for the first time since the triple invasion of Egypt five months ago, but a Jordanian machinegun attack on an Israeli freight train ended hopes the period of Mideast crisis was over.

An Israeli military spokesman said machinegun fire was opened on the train Thursday night from the Jordan strongpoint of Talkarem, 10-miles north of Qalqilya on the Israeli frontier, scene of a major Israeli retaliatory raid last Oct. 11.

No casualties were reported, but the attack north of Jerusalem where Jordan bulges into former Palestine territory was expected to inflame Israeli feelings, already tense because of recent ambushes and minor Fedayeen attacks.

The Israeli raid on Qalqilya, which came less than a month before invasion of the Sinai Desert, killed 66 persons.

Ten Ships Enter Canal

Ten ships entered the 101-mile-long Suez Canal this morning at Suez shortly after Egypt suddenly declared the canal open to big ships. The action was timed to come before the West could organize opposition to Egypt's demand for payment first and passage later.

The largest of the ten ships was the Italian cargo vessel Russula, 7,418-tons, but Egypt said ships up to about 14,000 tons and possibly 20,000 could not transit the canal. Ships today carried the flags of Russia, Romania, Greece, Panama, Costa Rica, Finland and Italy.

Egypt demanded and received full dues from each ship before it was allowed to sail from Suez into the canal.

Foreign Supervision Rejected

Passage of the convoy came one-day after Wing Cmdr. Aly Sabri, chief political adviser to Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, announced Egypt would operate, maintain and develop the canal with "no foreign supervision whatsoever." He also said Egypt wanted transit dues in advance.

In other Mideast developments:

—Informed sources in Cairo said the 20 million dollars to pay for the U.N. salvage operation probably would be collected by imposing a special surcharge on canal tolls.

—Jerusalem dispatches said the Israeli cabinet had decided to recall Ambassador Abba S. Eban from Washington. This would be Israel's admission of failure in agreeing through Eban to withdraw from the Gaza Strip, sources there said.

—U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold was meeting again today with his seven-man advisory committee in New York to consider the future of the UNEF and threats by several nations to withdraw it from the Mideast. There were unconfirmed rumors Hammarskjold might return to the Mideast.

Second-hand Hearse Called A Good Buy

HIGHTSTOWN, N. J. (UP) — Most people who ride in hearses have their money worries behind them, but for John Shortridge the vehicle offers a custom ride at a popular price.

"Old hearses are cheap, there is lots of room in them and they are in good shape because they have not been handled roughly," Shortridge said.

Shortridgt and his wife think so much of the hearse that their current one is their second. The first they used as their honeymoon vehicle.

The couple also has a Volkswagon that they use for short trips when around home, but they insist you can't beat a hearse for high-class travel.

Woman Denies Embezzlement

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A 31-year-old housewife who kept the books in the Harrison Twp. tax office went to the witness stand today to deny charges she aided in the alleged embezzlement of $67,000 from township tax funds.

Mrs. Betty Liotta, mother of infant twins, claimed she was innocent of any wrongdoing when she testified in her own defense at her trial as an accessory before and after the fact.

Mrs. Liotta began with an explanation of apparent discrepancies in the tax records, stating that a variance in totals resulted from a practice of entering per capita tax payments in property tax records as well as in the per capita books.

Antennae not Same as for Space Rockets

EAST LANSING, Mich (UP) — The first rocket to the moon will need antennae, but space ships won't be able to use the cumbersome devices we know as home radio and television recievers.

Two Michigan State University scientists currently are attempting to solve mathematical problems in hopes of stripping away part of the mystery still surrounding the operation of antennae.

Rockets and satellites couldn't use clumsy outside antennae such as those perched on top of roofs for television reception, say the scientists. They not only would slow down travel speed but would break off.

The MSU scientists theorize it would be feasible to treat the rocket as an antennae by applying electrical charges to various parts of the rocket.

Missile Test Fails

SOMAGAHRA, Japan (UP) — Japan's first guided missile failed its flying test today. The TMB-O, given a sneak preview Thursday, flew only a short distance before plunging to the ground.

TWO MEN DID IT — Sally Dawson, 23, secretary to Sherman Billingsley, famed proprietor of the Stork club in New York, displays the black eye she got when "two swarthy men" she had seen talking to pickets in front of the club assailed her as she was entering her apartment. Two unions, representing waiters and kitchen help, have been on strike since January.

Many Vote on Local Options

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Liquor Control Board said today 59 municipalities in 27 counties have filed petitions for one or more local option elections on the beer and liquor questions in the May 21 primaries.

Patrick E. Kerwin said a total of 89 separate questions will be voted on in the boroughs and townships. He said the "drys" apparently initiated 46 of the petitions.

Twenty-seven communities will vote on the sale of both liquor and beer, 24 on only liquor; three on liquor and beer distributor licenses; two on beer and three on only beer distributor licenses. No political subdivisions will vote on the establishment of state stores. during 1955, 79 municipalities held local option elections.

Social Security Office to Move

Effective Monday, the Washington County Social Security office will be located in Room 307, Washington Trust Building, Washington. The office is being moved from 180 South Main street, Washington.

The public is invited to inspect new quarters from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily, Harry Harper, manager, said today.

Ike Goes to Farm Today

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower, still complaining of "bronchitis," planned to leave today for a restful week end on his farm at Gettysburg, Pa.

The President, who has not made an overnight visit to the farm since last December, was scheduled to make the trip from the White House by automobile.

In addition to getting a rest the President will have a reunion with Mrs. Eisenhower who has been at the farm for two weeks. She went to Gettysburg at the time Mr. Eisenhower left by Navy cruiser for the Bahamas and Bermuda.

The ocean voyage may have caused some general improvement in Mr. Eisenhower's condition. But as late as Thursday afternoon he was telling visitors he still was bothered with what he described as bronchitis. His two-month-old cough remained in some evidence. He told his news conference earlier this week he wants to get some more sun.

His next change for a holiday of any duration apparently will not come until April 18 or 19 when he is expected to go to Augusta, Ga.

During his ocean trip the President put on two pounds, bringing him up to 170. Disclosure that he had gained brought to light the fact that his weight had gone down to 168 pounds in recent weeks, probably due to his continuing moderate diet plus the effects of his lingering winter cold.

His chief doctor, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, has not used the word bronchitis in describing the President's winter annoyance but terms it a form of tracheitis—a throat inflammation. Bronchitis apparently was the President's own choice of medical terminology.

Last Payday at Vesta 4; Mine Closes on Monday

California and Richeyville Areas To Be Hard Hit

CALIFORNIA, Pa. (UP)—Today was payday at Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp.'s Vesta No. 4 mine. But the payday banter among the 790 miners employed there had a hollow ring.

None ever will go down into the pit again.

J & L decreed two months ago that effective next Monday, April 1, Vesta No. 4 will be officially closed — depleted by more than half a century of active mining which has produced nearly 83 million tons of coal.

But today's second shift — the 4 p. m. to 12 a. m. turn — was the last to work the mine.

As of this afternoon most of the Vesta miners will be unemployed and scrambling for a livelihood in this Western Pennsylvania mining area where jobs, especially in its mines, are not easy to find.

$200,000 Payroll Gone

Residents of California and nearby Richeyville, where most of the J & L miners live in neat, well-kept homes, are taking the loss of a $200,000 weekly payroll with mixed emotions. Some were bitter, others "glad to be through with the dirty hole."

But local municipal officials, businessmen, United Mine Workers officials, and the miners and their families voiced general determination pooh-oohing fears their communities were destined to become "ghost towns."

California Burgess Robert Conaway, whose 8,000-population town is a hub for the area, said he believes "most people are optimistic they'll overcome this difficulty."

"After all," Conaway said, "we have overcome difficulties like this before. . .remember that mine once employed 2,500 men and lately its been down to around 700. We're growing here all the time and we can weather this one."

Richeyville Also Hit

He said everyone was hoping some of the men would be hired at other J & L mines in the area or in J & L steel mills nearer to Pittsburgh.

The job situation was more acute however in Richeyville, a 30-year-old coal town of about 1200 residents mostly dependent on the J & L mine payroll.

John Laskody, burgess of Centerville Borough where Richeyville is located, protested J & L should not have closed the mine. He said there is "a lot of coal there, enough to last quite a while."

"It seems like a dirty trick the way it was done," he said.

He said the miners had been given application forms for jobs at the company's works in Pittsburgh and Aliquippa but that the chances for employment in those cities was "not too bright. . .nobody has been called yet."

'Nursing Problem' Is Getting Much Worse

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UP) — According to Dr. William F. Macfee, a well-known New York surgeon, the "trend" among nursing supervisors in hospitals is "to delegate more and greater responsibilities to nursing assistants whoe ability to perform such duties may be questioned."

Dr. Macfee was giving his views on "the nursing problem" to other members of the American College of Surgeons, and it is a problem because there simply aren't as many trained nurses available for hospital nursing duties as there were before World War II.

But the poorly trained or untrained "nurses' assistant" or "nurse's aide" definitely is not the answer to the problem from a surgeon's viewpoint, said Dr. Macfee who noted that surgeons "are being asked to accept aides as substitutes for instrument nurses in the operating room."

Most Critical Area

"In the mind of the surgeon, at least, the operating room is one hospital," he continued. "If graduof the most critical areas in the ate nurses are not needed there, it hardly seems necessary to have them anywhere."

Nevertheless, "the trend in training schools is toward reduction of the time a student nurse spends in the operating room and some are inclined to omit operating room training altogether." It cannot be said, he added, that present educational policies of nursing schools," have led to the better care of patients."

His opinion, he said, is that "whatever the causal relationships may be, the quality as well as the availability of nursing service has deteriorated. Exceptions to in the older group of nurses and this general observation are found individually among recent graduates."

Problem Very Real

But "the nursing problem" is very real, he granted. Business and industry hire nurses as they are graduated for clinics and infirmaries, and "salaries, working hours, and pension plans as well have been made attractive." Anyway young women are disinclined to become nurses—so many new fields of employment have been opened for them.

The result has been that training school requirements have been made less rigorous and the time a student nurse "spends in practical training in the wards" has been "greatly reduced."

"In recent years emphasis has been placed upon training nurses for supervisory and administrative duties with relatively little stress on the practical aspects of the profession. As a matter of fact, bedside nursing has been actively discouraged."

He hoped the nursing profession itself would solve "the nursing problem." And he reminded the profession that "the patient and his doctor are vitally interested parties and any satisfactory settlement must meet their needs."

Candidates Can Hand Pamphlets In Glassport

GLASSPORT, Pa. (UP) —From now on political candidates can distribute pamphlets and handbills in Glassport without running afoul of a 1909 ordinance.

Judge Lois McBride Thursday declared unconstitutional the ordinance which forbid distribution of handbills. She ruled the law was invalid because it "denied freedom of the press" to four men.

McKeesport City Treasurer Albert Elko, who was running for Congress from the 30th District, was arrested with three others last year and fined a total of $30 plus costs. They had been passing out the literature to Copperweld Steel Co. workers when arrested.

Judge McBride ruled there was no evidence showing the defendants were littering the streets even if freedom of the press was not involved. She ordered the fines and legal costs be returned to the men.

Arrested with Elko were Frank Scalise, Turtle Creek, and Arthur O. Geusman, Penn Twp., both seeking nominations for legislature; and Joseph Muradja, North Braddock, a campaign worker.

Dublin Mayor to Be in Pittsburgh

Robert Briscoe, the first Jewish Lord Mayor of Dublin, Ireland, will be principal speaker at the annual luncheon conference of the tri-state region of the United Jewish Appeal at Penn-Sheraton Hotel, Pittsburgh, on Sunday, April 7.

The affair will celebrate the ninth anniversary of the State of Israel.

About 80 communities from the region will be represented.

Philosophy Is Dispensed by Federal Judge

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Philosophy was dispensed with justice Thursday by Federal Judge Joseph P. Willson.

John M. Kennedy, 32, temporary postal worker of West Homestead, admitted stealing eight letters from the mails. The judge fined him $100 and placed him on two years probation with an admonishment.

"The last place I'd steal from is a postoffice," the judge said. "In my short time on the bench I have found that postal inspectors are sharp."

Judge Willson meted out the same penalty for Paul Pacetti, 57, a dairy farmer of Derry. The defendant pleaded guilty to switching his activities from milk to moonshine in order to "get the farm on its feet." He was $3,000 in debt.

The judge asked Pacetti if he had any experience in running a still.

"None at all," the farmer replied.

"Then you couldn't get the still on its feet either," the judge remarked in imposing sentence.

Files Suit in Husband's Death

PITTSBURGH (UP)— Mrs. Patricia D. Dwight, 32, of Akron, Ohio, filed a federal court suit Thursday against the owners of a Warren, Pa. hotel where her husband died in a fire last year.

Charged with negligence were the defendants, Mr. and Mrs. Milburn Anderson, owners of the hotel. The complaint said the Andersons were negligent because they failed to provide proper safeguards for their guests.

Herbert V. Dwight, 38, was one of four persons who died in the fire which destroyed the 75-room structure last April 25. He was the father of two children.

U. S. Steel President Hits Business Taxes

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The president of U. S. Steel Corp., said Thursday night that business taxes in Pennsylvania are not conducive to attracting new industry or retaining present firms.

Clifford Hood said that with respect to taxes the state is at a "distinct disadvantage" in the tug-of-war between the states for new industry and called upon businessmen to recognize "the millstone which an unrealistic tax program places around the neck of industrial growth."

Hood cited New Jersey as an example of a state whose tax program invites new business and retains old firms—where total corporate taxes make up only six cents out of each dollar of state government revenue.

Speaking before the 22nd annual dinner of the Port of Philadelphia Maritime Society, Hood said that a recent Commerce Department survey showed that direct taxes on business provided 39 per cent of the total tax revenues in Pennsylvania during fiscal 1956.

He said this was the largest percentage ratio among the major industrial states included in the survey.

"This is a problem which will require considerable attention and intelligent action if this traditionally productive state is to maintain its competitive advantages even at present levels in the years ahead," he added.

Hood said the states which compete with Pennsylvania for industrial growth have endeavored to keep business taxes at a minimum and certain of them do not even tax corporate net income.

He told the dinner meeting that Pennsylvania has certain assets—such as skilled manpower, good transportation facilities and plentiful raw material—which make it attractive to industry.

Rehoboth

troubles which have arisen at the Rehoboth Church. We have held five meetings. We have discussed the situation with all the parties—the Rev. Mr. Jackaway, the session, and with various groups in the church who wished to be heard.

We have counseled with these parties and among ourselves. We have as best we could analyzed the testimony we have heard and are agreed on the following findings of facts:

"1. Rehoboth Church is in sound financial condition.

"2. The congregation of Rehoboth Church is in no sense irreconcilably divided, but on the contrary has shown a will and a desire to work together for the good of the church and Christ's Kingdom.

"3. While the Rev. Mr. Jackaway has shown a lack of discretion at times from the pulpit and has been somewhat tactless in his dealings with some of the members of his congregation, we find no malice in him.

"4. Those who have complained about the situation in the church have perhaps misconstrued things which have been said, have been possibly too quick to criticize, but we feel that in their objections they have been motivated by a deep concern for the maintenance of the peace and purity of the church.

"Your commission appreciates that it was at the request and suggestion of the ministerial relations committee that the Presbytery appointed this commission to investigate the matter and to present recommendations to the Redstone Presbytery. Your commission is unanimously of the opinion that this matter needs further attention and careful guidance. Therefore if it be the will of the Presbytery we offer ourselves as a commission to continue the relationship with Rehoboth Church with the understanding that the following recommendations are preliminary only and with the retention in your commission of the right and power to submit more complete and final recommendations at such time as your commission may deem wise.

"We therefore present these recommendations:

"1. We request the Presbytery's authority to counsel with Mr. Jackaway, the official boards of Rehoboth Church and members of the congregation in this wise; that a spirit of humbleness be recommended to the Rev. Mr. Jackaway in his dealings with the congregation and that a spirit of forebearance and charity be recommended to the members of the congregation.

"2. We recommend that the authority of this commission be continued; that it be vested with jurisdiction to visit Rehoboth Church, its worship services and session meetings for the purpose of keeping in close touch with developments and progress of the church.

"3. Should the situation within Rehoboth Church and the pastoral relationship therein not improve within a reasonable time we request the power to present further recommendations to Redstone Presbytery.

"4. We ask that Rehoboth Church be remembered in the prayers of the Presbytery and her individual members, that God may lead her to be a continuing instrument for good in the community, and that she may be a true witness to the love of God, revealed in our Lord Jesus Christ.

Respectfully submitted:

"David L. Say, moderator, Joseph E. Heckel, secretary, Donald C. Smith, Oliver R. Stang, Robert L. George, Thomas H. Hudson, Jr., Clinton M. Puff."

Poet Christopher Morley Dies at 66 in New York

NEW YORK (UP)—Christopher Morley, 66, author, essayist and poet who wrote more than 50 novels and books of poetry, died Thursday.

Morley, a leading figure on the American literary scene for nearly half a century, had suffered a series of minor strokes and had been confined to his home for most of the past five years.

Although he preferred to regard himself a poet, it was as a novelist and essayist that Morley won his greatest fame. While he achieved his largest measure of emminence in the 1920's and 1930's, several of Morley's works have been produced on television in recent years.

His best known works included the novel, "Kitty Foyle," which was made into a motion picture.

Symphony Deficit Serious as Fund Campaign Starts

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Steel City music lovers were told today they will have to raise $325,000 if their symphony orchestra is to survive the 1957-58 season.

Charles Denby, president of the Pittsburgh Symphony Society, said the orchestra has a deficit of $355,700.

He said annual fund drives have fallen short of their goals since 1952, corporate gifts and revenue from the annual Symphony Ball and other activities have been dropping and the orchestra's earned income has not been up to pre-season estimates.

"The experience of the past three seasons squarely poses the question whether Pittsburgh wants to support a major symphony orchestra," Denby said.

The orchestra's annual fund drive started today.

Dave Beck and 'My Counsel'

MANY Pennsylvanians must be having quite a time these days trying to understand all the implications of one aspect of the Dave Beck affair. And that is the employment of their former Governor and U. S. Senator, James H. Duff, as chief personal counsel for the beleaguered president of the Teamsters Union.

Of course, any individual who becomes involved in a legal proceeding is entitled to counsel, whether or not he is charged with or guilty of any misconduct. And a lawyer is entitled to represent any client, even a scoundrel, without his client's misdeeds, either alleged or proven, clouding the lawyer's own personal or professional reputation. These principles are basic in our system of law and justice.

But even when these principles have been fully accepted, Pennsylvanians can still hardly avoid wondering what Jim Duff is doing in the corner of Dave Beck. Of all the skillful lawyers whom Mr. Beck could afford to employ, why did he employ Jim Duff, who has practiced very little law for many years and whose overwhelming interest has been in Republican politics, at least until his defeat for reelection to the Senate last year?

All through his singularly unrevealing testimony before the Senate committee, Dave Beck kept repeating the name of "my counsel, Senator Duff", on whose advice Beck said he was taking the First, Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth Amendments of the Constitution and refusing to give testimony. One reporter counted at least 100 times that Mr. Beck mentioned the name of his chief attorney, desisting only after a couple of the senators made it plain that they were not in the least impressed by this prolific use of Senator Duff's name.

So if the public is in doubt as to why Senator Duff chose to associate himself with Mr. Beck, there can scarcely be any doubt why Mr. Beck sought the counsel of Senator Duff. He obviously believed that a man who had just recently left the august company of the investigating senators could do him some good.

We suppose there is nothing wrong with this in either law or ethics. But in all candor it is hard not to think that Senator Duff got this unenviable job because of the honor which Pennsylvania had done him. And we would think a little more of Mr. Duff had he passed it up.

Ike and the Budget

PRESIDENT Eisenhower has done well, we think, to take an unequivocal position with respect to his budget proposals which Congress is now considering.

As a result of some previous remarks made by both the President and his Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Humphrey, there had been a little doubt as to just where the administration stood on the budget. In effect, it had told Congress that it (the administration) hadn't been able to cut the budget below the $71 billion proposed but that it would be perfectly happy to have Congress cut it.

This put the administration in a wishy-washy position, which the President has now ended with his forthright statement on Wednesday to his press conference.

Mr. Eisenhower in substance wants the congressional budget-cutters either to put up or shut up. He insists that any substantial budget cuts will have to be made either at the expense of the nation's security (and he will not be a party to such cuts) or Cognress will have to decide precisely what services and benefits it wants to cut and take the responsibility for them. And he mentioned postal service, veterans benefits, farm subsidies, school construction and urban redevelopment as among the services which would have to be curtailed if the budget-slashing talk was to be taken seriously.

This forthright statement by the President, whether one agrees with all of it or none of it, at least puts him in a stronger light from a leadership standpoint. Members of Congress now know where the administration stands.

The New Chief

THE CHOICE of Gen. Nathan F. Twining, now chief of staff of the Air Force, to be the new chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff seems to us to be a good one.

General Twining is an air officer, which makes obvious sense in the present state of military affairs. But he is not an air power zealot, which makes him able to lead the kind of joint military effort which our national policy calls for.

Also, General Twining has some splendid personal qualities. He is steady without being unimaginative; he is self-effacing without lacking force; he is competent without inflated ego.

It is good to know that a man like this is at the top of our military system.

Information, please. How can a man who has done nothing criminal incriminate himself by telling what he has done?

Reds Dislike International Situation

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Soviet Russia is showing acute displeasure over developments in the international situation.

In recent days, the Moscow radio and Moscow newspapers have denounced President Eisenhower's decision to join the military committee of the Baghdad Pact against Communist aggression in the Middle East.

Mr. McCann

They have denounced the signing in Rome of a new treaty under which six European countries agree to form a common market, free of tariff barriers, and to pool their resources for the development of atomic power for peaceful purposes.

The decision of the United States to supply Great Britain with long-range atomic missiles has been condemned.

Russia Refuses Again

Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin, in a letter to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, has repeated Russia's refusal to discuss the reunification of Germany on any terms which might even possibly be acceptable.

It also has been disclosed that Bulganin, in a letter to Norwegian Premier Einar Gerhardsen, warned that Norway faces a catastrophe if it permits the establishment of guided missile and rocket bases on its territory under the North Atlantic Treaty.

Russia's reaction to the decision to intensify American cooperation with the members of the Baghdad Pact was to be expected.

Every move the United States makes in the Middle East lessens the chance that Russia by intrigue and subversion will be able to get a lasting foothold in that area.

Increases West's Unity

The treaty for the common European market and the atomic energy pool is bad news for Russia because it increases the unity of Western European countries and makes it harder for the big brains in the Kremlin to stir up jealousies and rivalries.

The hardened Russian attitude on German reunification is clearly a reflection of the dangerous situation in the Communist satellite countries. A separate East German state, completely subservient to Russia, is an essential to the Soviet government and will be for a long time.

Probably the warning was given to Norway not only because nuclear weapons bases in Norway would be uncomfortably close to Russia but because there seems to be increasing realization in northern most Europe of the danger of Russian aggression.

Votes of Congressmen Puzzling

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Sometimes it's hard for the American people to know exactly what's behind a Congressman's speech when he makes it in the House of Representatives. Sometimes it's even harder to know what's behind a Congressman's vote when he makes it secretly in a closed-door committee.

Mr. Pearson

The secret vote and secret moves by Congressman William Miller, Lockport, N. Y. Republican, were not, however, hard to fathom when the vote was taken on civil rights the other day. The public of course did not know what was happening, because the proceedings were secret. However, it has a right to know, so here is the inside story of what happened.

The House Judiciary Committee voted finally to approve the civil rights bill to protect the voting rights, plus other rights of Negroes. Before it voted, it had to overcome a hamstringing amendment by Miller.

The interesting point is why Miller, a northern Republican, introduced this amendment. One year ago he was the man who helped introduce the civil rights bills. He was strong for it. He posed as the great champion of the Negro. He talked like a second Abe Lincoln.

Then abruptly out of the clear blue last summer he reversed himself. Suddenly he began working with Congressmen William M. Colmer of Mississippi, Howard Smith of Virginia, and others below the Mason-Dixon Line who are hellbent to block civil rights.

Miller Does Somersault

Rising on the House floor last summer, Miller announced: "I make this motion in utter sincerity."

Then, overflowing with "profound conviction" and choked with "utter sincerity," he moved to recommit the very same bill he had signed as a sponsor.

Congressmen who listened to Miller's emotional speech last summer were not much impressed by his sincerity. They were impressed by his versatility. They knew he was considered the chief Congressional friend of the big utilities in their battle over Niagara Falls power. They also knew that Miller had been playing around with Dixiecrats Colmer and Smith, both members of the powerful Rules Committee, in an effort to block the Niagara Falls bill.

This bill had already passed the Senate, and the only place he could block it was in the Rules Committee. He succeeded. A double back-scratching act was accomplished. Miller reversed himself and helped block civil rights. Colmer and Smith in turn blocked the Niagara power bill.

Thus the traditional coalition of southern Democrats and northern Republicans to scratch backs on Negro and big utilities problems, held firm. That, of course, was last summer.

This winter it is still holding firm. Rep. Miller. Congressional friend of the power utility, was still helping his southern friends when he introduced his hamstringing civil rights amendment in the Rules Committee.

It lost by a vote of 15 to 17. Significantly six members of the Eisenhower party, which won many new Negro votes last November, teamed up with southern Democrats and Rep. Francis Walter (D., Pa.) to try to hamstring civil rights. They were: Miller, N. Y.; Taylor, N. Y.; Hyde, Md.; Poff, Va.; Cramer, Fla.; and Keeney, Ill. They lost out by two votes. The civil rights bill now goes to the full House and the Senate — if it can get by the Rules Committee.

Franco's Sleeper Resolution

Passage of the House resolution unanimously approving admission of Franco Spain into NATO got big headlines. What didn't get into the newspapers was the manner in which the resolution was slipped through Congress without most members knowing what was up.

The Spanish resolution was voted on immediately after the opening prayer on Wednesday, March 20. Few Congressmen were in the chamber. They don't usually arrive until 15 or 30 minutes after the opening.

The resolution was by "consent." One vote could have killed it. Therefore it was supposed to be listed on the consent calendar in advance so all members would know about it. But the consent calendar was called on Tuesday. The Franco resolution was not listed on the consent calendar and came as a complete surprise on Wednesday when many Congressmen who otherwise would have been on deck to vote against the Spanish dictator did not know what was happening.

Razor Giant Sued

Gillette Razors has had an anti-trust suit slapped on them for $1,000,000 of interest to every man who wrestles with a blade in the morning.

Testimony taken in advance of the trial has revealed that Gillette is getting to be about the only place where you can get a razor blade. It sells 90 per cent of those used in the USA, has achieved this money to splurge on big radio-TV coverage. If the trend keeps up, other razor-blade companies will probably fade out of the picture.

The antitrust suit is brought by the Norman Tobacco and Candy Co., of Birmingham, Ala., on the charge that Gillette boycotts certain wholesalers, won't sell them Gillette blades unless the wholesalers load up with tie-in products.

Albert Roseman, head of Norman Candy, says that Gillette's salesmen won't take orders unless a dealer also orders large amounts of "foamy shaving cream" and Gillette razors, thus forcing competitive products out of circulation.

The Justice Department has had its eye on Gillette off and on for some time, but it took a small company in Alabama to tackle the giant of the razor world.

Control of Senate at Stake in Texas Vote

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UP) — Texas, which is supposed to do everything in a big way, is staging a fantastic political contest next Tuesday. From a field of 22 candidates, the votes of a few hundred thousand people will elect one who will determine which party controls the United States Senate.

Mr. Lahr

At a special election, a senator will be chosen to serve until after the 1958 congressional elections.

There were no party primaries or conventions to nominate candidates. There will be no runoff in case the front-runner fails to poll a majority of the vote.

The word here is that a light vote is expected and that the winner is not expected to poll a majority.

GOP In Underdog Role

The Republicans have cast themselves in the role of underdog in normally Democratic Texas. But because of the nature of the race they figure their organization-backed candidate, Thad Hutcheson of Houston, has a chance to win. There is only one other GOP candidate and he has no organization support.

The remaining 20 names on the ballots are Democratic candidates including "liberal," "conservative" and pro-Eisenhower varieties. Texas Democrats in Washington have consistently maintained a show of confidence the winner will be a Democrat. But there is much uncertainty about the outcome and much speculation about how the votes of the also-rans will subtract from the votes of the leaders.

Only a few of the Democratic contenders are expected to poll a significant vote. The contest is viewed chiefly as a three-way race between Hutcheson and two Democrats — Rep. Martin Dies and Ralph Yarborough.

Outcome All Important

A Hutcheson victory presumably would depose Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas as majority floor leader of the Senate.

The Senate lineup is now 49 Democrats and 47 Republicans. Inasmuch as the GOP has the tie-breaking vote of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland has been ready to move for Republican control of the Senate whenever he can count 48 votes. However, one of the 47 incumbent Republicans is Sen. William Langer of North Dakota, who is still hospitalized, convalescing from a serious illness.

The election will fill the Senate seat for the remainder of the term to which Price Daniel, now governor of Texas, was elected in 1952. William Blakley, a temporary appointee, has held the seat since Daniel became governor.

Calypso Dances to Go With Music on Way

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Calypso dances to go with calypso music are on the way, and the hep set no longer will have to fit bop or jitterbug to its Caribbean beat.

Gay Pauley

I report this as a public service for all who like, to dance, and in particular for college students. In talking with a group of them during a trip to College Station, Tex. for the annual Southwestern Journalism Conference,

I kept hearing one complaint — "We don't have a step to go with calypso music."

So what has the college set been doing when the band swings into the current rage of the music world?

"We do bop or jitterbug," said one small, well-stacked coed from Texas College for Women.

"Or, we just follow the boy and let him worry," said another. "Sometimes we settle for the fox trot."

Begin Calypso

Well, it won't be long until dancers on and off-campus will be doing hip-swinging variations of the dance directly from Trinidad and Jamaica.

Three studios with branches in major cities already have begun calypso instruction. Arthur Murray Studios didn't hurry to include the steps in its repertory, but a spokesman said patterns were being worked out and "will be ready in a couple of months."

"Calypso is a primitive dance", said Anne Leone, who teaches teachers for Dale Dance Studios, Inc. "But our variations will be socially acceptable."

The Dale Calypso is based on the box step, and four beats of music. Here's how. Step forward with the left foot on the first beat. Hold, for one beat. On the third, step to the side with the right foot. And on the fourth, bring the feet together.

Hold-Quick-Quick-Hold

Now, step back with the right foot and hold . . . this takes two beats. On the third beat, move the left foot to the side. On the fourth, bring the right over to join it. "It's a hold-quick-quick-hold pattern," said Miss Leone.

Still standing? Now, use your imagination.

"The whole secret of calypso, once you have the basis step, is to do whatever comes in your head," she said. "We're working out variations in which the partners break, and then it's every man for himself."

"Actually," Miss Leone added, "Calypso is easy if you can do the bop. Bop is just our present generation's undulations based on Latin rhythms."

The Lighter Side—

'Like' Used Nowadays Like It Shouldn't Be

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—"Like," a nice little word which has been metamorphosing like crazy into the likes of many parts of speech for centuries amid the sick-like groans of disapproving schoolmarms, shows no signs of holding still and trying to be good—like a good like should.

It has gone and got itself all mixed up with the word-happy jazz musician crowd, of whom, as some grammarian once said, there is no whoer.

Of course, grammar is what you make it, and it was Horace Greeley, whose like was looked upon by thousands of readers, who once retorted proper to a letter from a reader about an alleged grammatical slip. The complaining letter ended up, "A thousand grammarians are hanging on your answer." Greeley replied simply: "The spectacle of a thousand grammarians hanging anywhere would be to me a joy forever." However, he was an editor, a breed notorious for likely answers.

What the beboppers, and their like, are doing to "like," though, is a considerable sea-change. Historically, "like" has implied a comparison, as in: "Duh cops come, and we run like holy jumping hades." Or, "Why don't you be nice, like I?" (This last is for Ring Lardner characters.)

But according to the jazz historian Marshall Stearns, who keeps on top of such things, the modern jazz musicians are using the word before any and all phrases, indiscriminately, as a rather peculiar opening particle.

Thus: "What should we do today—like go out?. . like stay in?".

Stearns gives in illustration the story of the jazzman in front of Birdland who sees a fire engine crashing down on him, and he hollers: "Like help!"

'Worst' Is Good

For about 15 years, these musicians have used the word "blow" to mean playing any instrument. Whether it's a horn, guitar, or drums, you blow it. Stearns notes now the omnipresent usage of opposites to express meaning. "Terrible" is the highest praise. A fine musician gets this posy: "He blows the worst."

Stearns, who founded the Institute for Jazz Studies and has written and exhaustive jazz history, is not one to heap praise on jazz speech.

"Jive talk is in a sense poverty-stricken," he says. "It does bring out some occasional words or phrases which find acceptance like 'hip' and 'square.' But usually they use the same word for so many meanings that it begins to lose all meaning. 'Cool' is used many ways. If they say, 'It's cool,' that's approbation. But if they want you to be quiet, they say: 'Cool it' man.'"

If you say "hep" around jazz people nowadays, you're square. "Hep" started around 1940, with bebop, which succeeded rebop. Then, about six years ago, it changed to "hip." Bebop was rebop at first—one theory has it—because it came from the Spanish "arriba," meaning go.

ON THE BALL

By ALLEN KLINE

Another SI Story on State Boys

The current issue of Sporting News has another lengthy story on Pennsylvania schoolboy footballers. This yarn is a sequel to an earlier SI feature which described the state as a "happy hunting ground" for college coaches. Unlike the former piece, the current report is generally complimentary. It deals with the college progress of the boys previously mentioned. Practically all of them not only proved smashing football successes with freshmen teams, but they also did quite well in the classroom . . . Incidentally the SI story carries a lead picture of Charleroi's Maury Guttman, who is now at Miami. Guttman's mother is quoted at some length on the progress of her quarterbacking son.

James (Beanie) Gordon, the Washington schoolboy who was named to the United Press All-State basketball team, pulled an iron man stunt in the Ozark Tournament at the Monessen High gym the other night. Beanie played almost full-time in no less than three tourney games. He helped the Monessen Links to a win in their Junior Class assignment, then appeared twice with the hometown Washington Intervals in Senior Class activity . . . By the way, John Laneve, a member of the Intervals, is related to the Destefano family of Monessen. He's currently at Pitt after starring for Newell, W. Va., High School.

Molnar Reports Ninth Street in Shape

Councilman John (Butch) Molnar, in charge of city parks, reports that Ninth Street Park has been readied for the upcoming baseball season. The diamond is said to be in good condition . . . Incidentally the tennis courts at Ninth Street will also be opened soon for the spring and summer season . . . Larry Papini, former California High standout who played with Perryopolis in the Mon Valley Baseball League last season, has signed with Charleroi Merchants for the 1957 campaign . . . Prep League baseball officials are trying to drum up interest in Monessen for a loop here. The program is for boys who have graduated from PONY League ranks.

Allentown High just can't seem to get by the eastern regional playoffs in the PIAA tournament. The Canaries have lost only three games in their last 74 starts, but the setbacks came in the sudden-death eliminations, thus erasing them from title consideration . . . At St. Vincent College, officials have okayed a holiday basketball tournament next season at the Bearcat gym. Coach Dodo Canterna has the makings of a great St. Vincent quint . . . This quick quote from the Little League magazine: 'Parents should help their youngsters participate in Little League baseball, but they shouldn't ride them.'

Dugan Named Grid Coach at North

Billy Dugan has been promoted from assistant to head football coach at North Huntingdon High School. He will succeed Dick Bestwick, who has moved on to Grove City High. Dugan, a graduate of Bloomsburg State Teachers College, will receive $800 for his new duties . . . Incidentally North Huntingdon also needs a basketball coach. Ed Addis, the former Brownsville High pilot, quit after just one season at the helm . . . Bucky Grover, all-around Brownsville athlete, has left for spring training with the Chicago Cub farmhands at Mesa, Ariz. Buck turned in an impressive record as a pitcher with Lafayette, La., in the Class C Evangeline League last summer.

Sarni, Mantle Sitting Out Spring Training

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—The baseball spring training period is drawing to a close and, for guys like Mickey Mantle and Bill Sarni, it will be one they'll never forget.

Pretty soft, you say, to escape the wintry blasts and loll around in the sunshine while getting paid for it. But to the players this is the toughest part of the season, the aches and pains period which some of them don't survive.

Sarni didn't—and with Mantle every day is hazardous.

At 29, the Giant catcher reached the end of his baseball career when he suffered a heart attack He'll coach, sure, but at his age you don't expect to be finished competitively.

And can you imagine Mantle's feelings when he stepped into an outfield hole and suffered a severe ankle sprain? You could feel him wondering whether he, too, had "had it."

Legs Are Fragile

Because actually every day could be Mantle's last. His legs are that fragile. There's that arrested osteomyelitis in his shin as well as the trick knees which have been operated on twice and must be kept tightly wrapped at all times against the dangers of sudden stops and starts.

At 25, Mantle has it "made" if his luck holds. Winning the triple crown batting championship and most valuable player honors netted him a $60,000 salary this season. And, they insist, he is just getting started.

Lots of others suffered serious and painful difficulties this spring. Early Wynn can hardly walk because of a pulled leg tendon. Herb Score suffered a wrenched knee Gerry Staley of the White Sox came back after a lip operation for a cancerous growth and Ted Kluszewski is fighting the crippling effects of a pinched sciatic nerve. Bill Skowron broke a thumb and Ray Narleski a finger.

Aches Disappear Eventually

For most of them it's a temporary situation. The minor breaks knit and the aches disappear eventually.

Sarni will be carried on the roster so that he can obtain his five-year status but actually he has to take it easy. It's a heart-breaking case of a guy without a chance.

Mantle's ankle is healing nicely. But the club breaks into a cold sweat when it thinks of what could have happened to him. Considering the case history of his legs, it could have been the end.

Pretty soft, you say? They'll be glad when the season starts.

Too Many Cooks

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP) — Three state engineers decided Thursday that if they want to complete a study of Knoxville's downtown expressway project, they will have to do it in secret. When Sam Vesser, John Quaid and Elmer Reed started over the proposed route they were joined by a party of city engineers, three members of the Knoxville Housing Authority and two reporters. They decided things were getting too crowded and returned to their office. They said they would make the study at an unannounced time.

Finals Tonight in Ozark Tournament

Sharon, Chester Clash Sat.; 'B' Title Game on Tap Tonight

Sharon High's slick passing Bengals will meet tall and talented Chester tomorrow in Philadelphia's Palestra for the Pennsylvania Class A basketball title.

Coach Bud Laycock's Bengals, unbeaten in 27 games this season, will be making their second appearance in the championship game in the past five years. In 1953, Sharon lost to unheralded Yeadon, 55-43, in the PIAA finals

The current Sharon team is paced by a "little" fellow — 5-10 Mark DuMars, a tricky senior who performs best when the pressure is on

The Sharon height is supplied by John Fridley and Mike Matta, both of whom, stand about 6-4.

Completing the Sharon array are Ed Winters, 6-0; and Pete Culp, 5-10.

Tested Under Pressure

The Bengals survived the difficult WPIAL tournament to qualify for the state title shot. Thus they have been tested under tourney pressure.

Chester, however, looms as Sharon's biggest hurdle of the season. The Clippers, themselves, are no newcomers to state title play. In both 1954 and 1955, Chester made the championship game, losing to Farrell and McKeesport, respectively.

But Coach Bob Forward vows that it will be different this time.

"In 1954 and 1955 we played our best ball during the season," explained Forward. "We were over the peak for the tournament."

That isn't the case this year, according to Forward. He feels his boys are just reaching their peak

Well Balanced

The Chester team is rangey and well balanced. There are no stars, but no weak spots either.

The starting array includes Lou Wade, 6-4; Warren Sutton, 6-3; Bill Wilson, 6-0; Harry Foster, 6-0; and Charles Davidson, 6-0.

Foster averaged 24 points per game this season while Wade had a 17 point average and Sutton a 12 point average.

Chester will take a 25-2 record into the Palestra. One of the losses was an early season setback at Farrell. The other was a close decision to Lower Merion of Philadelphia.

Oddly enough, the current Chester team doesn't boast a single regular from last year's club.

Chester has one big advantage over the Bengals in that the Clippers have already played a couple of games on the unusual Palestra floor.

Decide B Title

The state class B title will be decided tonight at Wesminster College when Shannock Valley meets Fountain Hill.

Shannock, the WPIAL king, has won 26 straight games. Fountain Hill will take a 27-3 record into the tussle.

The eastern champs from Fountain Hill are slight favorites, though. They will boast a height advantage, even over the Shannock boys who aren't exactly midgets themselves.

Fountain Hill, located near Bethlehem, is the defending champion. The eastern boys clipped East Pittsburgh last year for the crown.

Nuxhall Looks Good for Cincy In Spring Drills

By UNITED PRESS

The Cincinnati Redlegs thought they had a 20-game winner in lefty Joe Nuxhall last season, until aches and pains held him to a "jinx 13," but it looks like 220-pound "Baby Joe" is ready now for that big year.

The hefty lefty looked pretty near his best form Thursday in giving up only four hits at Clearwater, Fla., to beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-2 He fanned five batters and, though he walked five, was in trouble in only one inning when a hit batsman, a walk and a balk helped the Phillies score twice

Nuxhall won without the Redlegs' famed power. A three-run third-inning rally included only an error, four walks, and a sacrifice fly

There was glory for another pitcher Thursday — Red Murff, the Milwaukee Braves' much-traveled reliever. Murff, who won his last game with a double, made lightning strike again in the same place — and this time against the world champion New York Yankees The Braves defeated the Yanks 6-4

Another Double

He was allowed to bat for himself in the 10th with two on and two out. Yankee Manager Casey Stengel pulled his outfield in close, and Murff knocked one of Tommy Byrne's pitches over the center-fielder's head for another double to score both runners. Earlier, Tom Sturdivant of the Yanks had shut out Milwaukee for seven innings, bringing his string of scoreless frames to 21.

Around the other camps:

Yankee ace Whitey Ford was excused from today's game because of a "tender" throwing arm, but Mickey Mantle seemed to be making progress from his injured left ankle.

Dark Homers

Al Dark's three-run homer was highlight of Cardinals' 7-4 win over the White Sox as lefty Billy Pierce was rapped for six runs in three innings.

Lou Skizas' three-run homer led the A's to a 7-3 win over Pittsburgh, one of his three hits.

Young Otter Disdains Menu Of Other Fish

LANSING, Mich (UP) — A young otter—a ward of the Michigan Conservation Department—seems bent on refuting the reputation of her species as fish-killers.

A five-month-old female otter, said Dr S C. Whitlock, assistant chief of the department's game division does not like fish.

"She will eat fish only if no other food is available and prefers bread and milk over fish," said Dr. Whitlock. "Her favorite dish is hamburger."

The type of fish doesn't seem to matter either. The otter has turned up her nose at mackerel, salmon, sardines, smelt and others.

Whitlock has studied this particular otter since she was turned over to the department after being caught by a dog.

MHS Track Team Is Young, Inexperienced

Monessen High track coach Cliff Jones admits quite frankly that he doesn't know how good his boys will be this season.

"To begin with, we have an inexperienced squad," reported Jones. "Practically all of our boys are either freshmen or sophomores. Some are even eighth graders."

Jones continued:

"To further complicate matters, the weather has limited drills. We've been trying to practice despite the rain and cold, but there just isn't much you can do."

Jones has only one "starting" member from last year's MHS cinder cast. He is miler Bill Donnell If the Hounds are to win any events this season, it will probably be up to Donnell to do it.

Tendency to Fade

A year ago, Donnell looked good in several meets but had a tendency to fade in the late going. He is expected to do much better this year

Four young sprinters have attracted Jones' attention in early workouts. They are Algie Link, Jonn Sivak, Paul Dizak and Bob Pauline

Unhappily all of them are newcomers to track who need more experience before becoming serious threats However they certainly have the potential.

Jones is counting mostly on George Seleylo and Tracy Allen for the middle distance runs.

Field Events Open

In the field events, Monessen will have few representatives Ed Allen, a big footballer, is about the only definite entry in that class.

Thus the track campaign at Monessen this year will be strictly for "fun" and experience.

The Hounds are scheduled to appear in five meets, including the annual Big Six show at Brownsville on May 3 beginning at 1:30 p. m.

Other appearances will be made at Brownsville on April 12; at Redstone on April 16; at Donora on April 24; and at Uniontown on May 7.

Sports Car Club To Meet Tuesday

Mountain Sports Car club will Hotel. Tarrs, Pa. at 8 p. m. next Tuesday.

The meeting will mark the beginning of the Spring and Summer schedule, during which meetings will be held the first Tuesday evening of each month.

Winners of the March event, the Third Sampler Rally, will be announced by Leo Phillis, Uniontown. Trophies will be presented to the first, second and third place drivers and navigators. Byron K. Bishop, Connellsville, will be in charge of the entertainment portion of the program.

Frisco to Play In Tournament

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)— San Francisco University, winner of the NCAA basketball championship in 1954 and 1955, today be959.5 the NCAA basketball championship in 1954 and 1955, today became the fourth team to accept a berth in the Oklahoma City All-College Tournament here next December. The Dons, who finished third in this year's NCAA playoffs, join Oklahoma City U., Idaho State and Denver in the eight-team tourney.

Links, Tracys in Showdown for Junior Crown

This is the night the champions of the sixth annual Ozark Basketball Tournament will be decided at the Monessen High gym.

In the Junior Class, the Monessen Links will meet the defending champion Monessen Tracys at 8.15 p. m. for the 1957 title.

In the Senior Class, undefeated Donora Last Chance will take on the once-beaten Washington Intervals at 7 p. m. Should the Donorans win that game, the title will be theirs.

However a victory by the Intervals will force a deciding game between the same two at 9:30 p. m.

Donora Last Chance is a red-hot favorite to dispose of the Intervals in the 7 p. m. game. On Wednesday, the talented Donorans romped over Washington with easy, 87-67.

Real Surprise

That lopsided conquest came as a surprise. Washington — loaded with Pitt's fine scoring twins Bob Lazor and John Riser — had been regarded as the tourney's most likely title candidate.

The Donorans, who barely got by by Monessen Big Five, 52-50, in their first tourney appearance, have been absolutely sensational on late.

Spearheading the Last Chance attack are a pair of Carnegie Tech Goetz.

But the well-balanced roster includes other capable players, too. Cecconi, John Mesher, Dave Wunderlich, Dave Russell and Al Garde as well as Sibby LoNegro of California Teachers and Guy Pugliese of Sharpsburg.

Look Good

On paper, at least, the Washington Intervals, appear to be as good if not better than the Donorans.

Besides Riser and Lazor the roster includes the brilliant Beanie Gordon, Dick Kurtz, Gene Steratore, John Laneve, Paul Lazor, Barry Brautigan Frank Steratore and Jack Schultz.

Laneve and Brautigan are also Pitt cagers while the rest of the Intervals are former Wash High standouts.

The Junior Class game shapes up as a real natural Both the Links and Tracys are loaded.

The Tracy lineups includes Charleroi stars Don Testy, Bob Boda, Carl Witmyer Myron Pottios and Jimmy Chacko as well as Monessen products Frank Crisi, Maurice Mathieu and John Bogovich. Completing the array is Ron Gray, a Bellmar grad.

The Links, coached by veteran Monessen police lieutenant Algie Link, have drawn talent from all over. The roster includes Carl Crawley and Ron Minnie of Monessen, Beanie Gordon and Charles Smith of Washington; Ollie Payne, of Charleroi; Wilbur Stewart of Snowden; Reginald Haten of Rostraver and Dave Russell of Donora.

So far the Links and Tracys have handled their tourney assignments in pretty impressive fashion. All of which indicates a slam-bang collision.

Boots Saloth and Bud Roman will officiate tonight's senior class activity, while Joe Leone and Steve Tkachik will handle the junior tussle

The first successful auto trip from San Francisco to New York was made in 70 days in the summer of 1903.

Tourney Queen Will Be Selected At Gym Tonight

A queen will be selected tonight to reign over the sixth annual Ozark Basketball Tournament at the Monessen High gym.

The seven competing candidates made their first appearance at the tourney on Wednesday. They will be on hand again this evening for the final judging.

Competing for the honor are Beverly Robinson, of California; Dolly Sicchitano, Bentleyville) Carol Jydak, Monessen; Pat Minyon, Rostraver; Delia Diaz, Donora; Cherie Nogy, Belle Vernon and Linda Rogers, Charleroi.

The queen will win many prizes including a wrist watch. All other girls will also receive awards.

The judging committee is made up of Mrs. John Hurley, Society Editor of the Daily Independent; Dr. Michael Duda, president of California Teachers; and Frank Buscamics, Charleroi sportscaster. Acting as beauty consultant is Jimmy Bonafed, of the LaRose Beauty Salon.

Monessen Fifth Out to Clinch Valley Crown

The Monessen Fifth Avenue girls will be out to clinch first place in the final Mon Valley Women's Bowling League standings tonight when they play host to Scottdale.

With only a month left in the current season, the Monessen girls hold a whopping nine game lead over second place Uniontown.

In all, Fifth Avenue has just nine games to play. That means a single victory will insure the top rung of the standings.

Last weekend, Monessen won two of three games from Bentleyville. Lucy Faltz paced the winners with a fine 212-531 score, while Mary Fefolt was high for Bentleyville with a 223-504 chart.

In other matches, Charleroi Grands won a pair from Uniontown, Belle Vernon took two from Monongahela, Donora earned a brace from Fredericktown and Vestaburg bested Connellsville twice.

Top Scorers

Scoring leaders include Ruth Boal, 174-503 (Uniontown); Millie Rovny, 173-471 (Charleroi); Ida Picchiarini, 152-450 (Belle Vernon); Helen Koch, 156-457 (Monongahela). Peg Johnston, 128-381 (Donora); Mary Maskovich, 138-377 (Fredericktown); Nancy Hudock, 148-420 (Connellsville) and Vestaburg).

Standings show Monessen, 71-16; Uniontown, 62-25; Donora, 58-29; Fredericktown, 51-36; Charleroi, 49-38; Monongahela, 48-39; Bentleyville, 45-42 Connellsville, 40-47; Belle Vernon, 36-51; Scottdale, 31-56; and Vestaburg, 24-63.

The league rolloffs will be held on May 2 and May 10. The regular season race will conclude on April 26. No matches are scheduled on Good Friday.

Close Scores in Hearth League

Bakers won two games from the Leinbergers and Cutters earned a pair from the Bergstedts in Open Hearth Pitt League bowling last night.

Scoring leaders were Ed Anderson, 194-463; Nick Nuccetelli, 189-492; Quiny Szmanski, 160-420; and John Zdilla, 170-474.

Standings show Bakers, 18-12; Cutters, 17-13; Bergstedts, 14-16; and Leinbergers, 11-19.

MHS Baseball Game Off Again

Greyhound - McKeesport Tussle Postponed Until Next Week

BULLETIN

Today's Monessen-McKeesport exhibition baseball game has been postponed because of wet grounds. It will be played either Tuesday or Wednesday of next week.

Monessen High's baseballers will try again today to open their 1957 exhibition season against McKeesport at Ninth Street Park. However the weather threatened to force another postponement.

The game was originally scheduled for yesterday, but was called off because of a day-long rain.

Should today's game be postponed — as appears likely — the tussle will be moved back to Monday.

All other schoolboy exhibition action in the valley was washed out by the rain. Bellmar was to meet West Newton, Donora was to appear at Elizabeth and Monongahela was to go to Clairton.

Reschedule Games

All of those games have been rescheduled for today, but it's doubtful if any will be played.

The schoolboy exhibition season is always a doubtful proposition, with the weather usually spoiling most of the fun.

Here's a tentative exhibition card for Section 17 entries. The league season will begin April 8.

Milwaukee GM Defends Haney's Bunt Tactics

BRADENTON, Fla. (UP)—John Quinn, general manager of the Braves, today came to the defense of Manager Fred Haney, who was accused of bunting away Milwaukee's pennant chances last year.

"There was nothing wrong with the system Haney used," Quinn maintained. "He managed on the theory that if the club scored five runs a game it could win with the kind of pitching we had. And the records prove that system was all right because we lost only a few games in which we scored five or more runs."

Haney was second-guessed, especially during the September stretch run, for bunting and trying for one run when such sluggers as Ed Mathews and Hank Aaron, the National League's batting champion, were at the plate.

Haney's critics claimed he played it "too close to the vest" and would have been better off had he allowed his sluggers to hit away.

"I don't go for that rot," Quinn said. "First off, no major league club hires anyone as a manager who is not a sound fundamentalist. By that I mean he knows his players, just what they can do and fits his strategy to that pattern. We would not have hired Fred had we not been convinced he was the best man for the job.

Quinn said he had not talked to Haney about it, but that he wouldn't be "surprised if Fred doesn't play the same type of game again this year."

"Of course, that is up to him," he added. "He's the manager. The front office won't interfere and never will. We named him the boss because we had confidence in him and although it was tough the way we lost out last year, there isn't any one in the Braves organization who faults Fred in the least.

"He went as far as he could with the players we provided him. That's all you can ask of any manager."

Pig Machine in Easy Victory

Pig Machine blanked Electrical in Blast Furnace Bowling League action last night.

In other matches, Steam Plant won two from Blow Room and Mechanical took a pair from Cast House.

Scoring leaders were Andy Baron, 171-462; Alex Klipnick, 221-480; Chuck Ellin, 203-533; Hank Mazur, 178-470; Marv Wargo, 191-574; and Bill Valko, 209-531.

Standings show Electrical, 26-16; Cast House, 23-19; Mechanical, 23-19; Steam Plant, 21-21; Pig Machine, 17-25 and Blow Room, 16-26.

Li'l Leaguer

Briefs from Buccaneer Camp

With half of the spring training schedule over, Pirates' manager Bobby Bragan is still having difficulty cutting the squad. He has been using a different line-up nearly every day in an effort to give every player a chance to show what he can do. "I plan to start using a set line-up for the last few games in Florida and in the games on the trip home." Team captain and shortstop Dick Grout doesn't envy Bragan his cut-down decisions. "I've never seen such competition in a camp before," says Dick. "At first I thought the outfield was pretty much set with Lee Walls, Bill Virdon and Roberto Clemente. But now with Roman Mejias and Johnny Powers both hitting over .400, and Dick Stuart hammering out homeruns, I don't know just how set it is." Groat sees competition for the infield spots too. "Both Paul Smith and Bob Skinner in addition to R. C. Stevens are pressing Dale Long at first. Gene Freese is right behind Frank Thomas at third and so is Leo Rodriguez. At short and second Bill Mazeroski and myself are getting stiff competition from Johnny O'Brien and Buddy Pritchard. But don't get me wrong," Groat adds, "Competition is a wonderful thing. It makes everyone work harder and is a healthy sign, since it shows the club is really improving."

Getting back to the cut-down problem, Bragan continued, "I've said before that I intend to carry ten pitchers. That leaves 16 other spots on the club, since Paul Smith won't count because he's just back from the service. I have to keep three catchers. At the moment, it looks as though Danny Kravitz will be the first string man because of his hitting. Maybe I'll be sacrificing a little on defense with Kravitz, but I can always use Dick Rand or Hank Foiles in the late innings if necessary."

News from Pittsburgh reaching Ft. Myers included the fact that Bob Friend has been named as one of the City's Ten Best Dressed Men, by the Golden Triangle Association. General Manager Joe L. Brown was the sports figure on the "Ten Best" list last season. KDKA radio and TV will carry the Pirates game this season. All games will be broadcast with Bob Prince and Dick Bingham again manning the mikes, and Saturday road games and the first games of Sunday road doubleheaders will be televised back to Pittsburgh this summer. . . George Sisler, former scouting supervisor and now Special Advisor to the Manager, is out of the hospital following surgery and back at his desk in the Forbes Field office.

Logart Favored Over Turner

NEW YORK (UP)—Cuban Isaac Logart, loudest contender for the welterweight title, is favored at 11-5 to beat Gil Turner again tonight in their return 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

It will be the last fight at the Garden until July 5. Other attractions, including the circus and evangelist Billy Graham, are slated meanwhile at the punch emporium.

Tonight's bout will be televised and broadcast nationally by NBC; and the succeeding Friday TV-radio fights will be presented by NBC from other cities until the leather-tossers return to "The House that Tex Rickard Built."

Logart, third-ranking contender for Carmen Basilio's crown, won a close but unanimous decision over ex-challenger Turner at the Garden last Oct. 21. However, at that time Gil was trying unsuccessfully to fight as a middleweight.

Ike, 23, is a yelling loudly for a title fight because he won 11 of his last 12 bouts, and he is offering Basilio a guarantee of $50,000 for a crown-defense.

'No Decision' in Giardello Bout

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—The Missouri state Athletic Commission today ruled a "no decision" resulted from Wednesday night's nationally televised Willie Vaughn-Joey Giardello fight because Referee Ray Sissom used the wrong system of scoring. Vaughn had been given a split decision at the end of the 10-round middleweight fight, after Sissom changed his card to comply with the "five point must" system that has been in effect in Missouri since Sept. 5, 1956.

Players to Decide On Reserve Clause

ORLANDO, Fla. (UP) — Big-league baseball players will tell Commissioner Ford Frick next week whether they are going to "back the reserve clause" when Congress starts to investigate the diamond sport.

Player representatives Eddie Yost of the Washington Senators and Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phillies disclosed Thursday night that the players are "cooperating with the owners" by holding meetings to decide their stand on the controversial reserve clause in player contracts.

Several clubs already have held player meetings and others were scheduled to do so this weekend.

Zulueta to Sub For Paolo Rossi

WASHINGTON (UP) — Orlando Zulueta of Cuba has been named to replace the injured Paolo Rosi of New York as Joey Lopes' opponent in a 10-round bout at the Capital Arena, April 3. The bout will be televised

64 Colleges Represented in NCAA Wrestling Show at Pitt

PITTSBURGH (UP) — About 250 grapplers from 64 colleges compete in the 27th annual NCAA wrestling championships getting underway today. But the finals may narrow down to an intra-state struggle between defending champion Oklahoma A & M and Oklahoma.

Last year the Sooners finished only three points behind the Aggies who won their third straight title. They defeated the Aggies in a dual meet this season.

Three defending NCAA champions and 14 conference titleholders are among the largest field in the tourney history which opens the two-day event at the University of Pittsburgh Field House.

Preliminary matches will be held on four mats until the 250-man entry list slims down to eight quarter - finalists in each of 10 weight divisions.

40-Match Quarter-Finals

Tonight's quarter-finals will require 40 matches to cut the field to four semi-finalists who go to the mat in each weight class Saturday afternoon.

Three Pennsylvania teams loom as dark horses. Pittsburgh, which did not have a wrestling team until eight years ago, Penn State, and Lehigh have titlists on their squads.

Penn State has three Eastern champions with 130-pound John Johnston, 137-pound Johnny Pepe and 147-pound Dave Adams.

Pitt's Ed Peery, son of Panther Coach Rex Peery, will try to become the third member of his family to win three NCAA titles. Ed has won two NCAA titles in the 123-pound bracket and two Eastern championships. In college competition he has won all but one of 48 matches.

Edward J. Hamer won the 157-pound Eastern championship for Lehigh.

Oklahoma A & M Coach Myron Roderick disallowed he had a defeatist complex but as a realist he did not think his team would cop its fourth straight crown.

Have More Experience

"It looks like Oklahoma to me. They have more experience. We'll be among the top contenders, but Oklahoma should win," he said.

Competing schools are:

Army, Baltimore, Baldwin-Wallace, Brown, Buffalo, Carleton, Columbia, Cortland, CCNY, Colorado A & M, Colorado, Colorado State, Cornell, Cornell of Iowa, Iowa, Denver, Drexel, Duke, Franklin and Marshall, Gustavus-Adolphus, Hofstra, Harvard, Hiram, Iowa, Iowa State, Iowa Teachers, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas State, Kent, Lehigh, Lewis & Clark, Lock Haven, Luther, Maryland, Mankato, Kings Point Merchant Marine, Miami of Ohio, Michigan, Michigan State, Minnesota, Muhlenberg, Navy, North Carolina, Northwestern, Ohio U. Ralph Branca Decides to Retire From Baseball

By UNITED PRESS

The dream, that really never has been clear and bright ever since Bobby Thomson hit "that home run," has ended at last for Ralph Branca.

The tall, husky righthander, who has been trying to make a comeback as a pitcher with the Brooklyn Dodgers, heeded the advice of his wife today and retired from the game at the age of 31—exactly 10 years after he became a 21-game winner and one of baseball's top youngsters.

"I'm going to call it quits," said Branca at Orlando, Fla. "I'll probably try the insurance business."

On Way Down

Thus appeared to end a baseball career that will be remembered in the history of the game for just one pitch — the one Branca threw to Thomson of the New York Giants in the final pennant playoff game of 1951. Thomson blasted it for a three-run homer to win the game and the pennant for the Giants — perhaps the most dramatic single blow in the history of baseball.

Branca never regained the heights after that. He left the Dodgers for Detroit, then the Yankees, then into retirement, and finally this last comeback.

Branca was one of a number of players lopped from big-league rosters today as the teams struggled to reach the 28-man player limit by the new opening day deadline.

Athletics Beat Pirates Again

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UP)— The Kansas City Athletics are the Pittsburgh Pirates' jinx rivals.

The A's beat the Pirates, 7-3, Thursday for the third time in the current spring exhibition schedule. The Pirates have won one from the A's.

Lou Skizas walloped a homer off Ronnie Kline in the fifth inning to lead the A's to victory. Kline had held the A's to only three hits over the first four innings and was holding a 2-1 lead when Billy Hunter, Vic Power and Milt Graff all singled to tie the score and Skizas homered to put the A's ahead. They never lost the lead after that.

Bill Virdon, Dale Long and Bill Mazeroski each had two hits for Pittsburgh, while Skizas had three safeties for the A's. Power and Hunter had two each.

Swimmers Begin Competition in College Meet

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (UP)— Some 500 swimmers from 60 colleges and universities got down to serious business today in the first full day's competition in the 34th annual national collegiate swimming championships.

As preliminaries began in eight events this morning, favored Yale held a one-point edge over Michigan in the team standings, 9-8.

Michigan's Fritz Myers tied the University of North Carolina Bowman Gray Pool record in winning the 1,500-meter freestyle Thursday night but the Elis copped second and third places to take the team point lead.

Texas had three points and Denver two as today's competition began.

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UP)— Approximately 1,400 fans jammed Washington High School gym Thursday night and paid $550 to the Dick Kadis Fund to see a basketball game between the WPIAL Section 4 and Section 15 all-stars.

The Section 4 team won, 69-65.

Managerial Changes May not Help Chisox

TAMPA, Fla. (UP)— The Chicago White Sox have made only one major change from the club which finished third, 12 games behind the pennant - winning Yankees in 1956. They switched managers.

They fired Marty Marion and brought in Al Lopez, who had specialized in finishing second with the Cleveland Indians. That change doesn't figure to make up that 12-game difference unless some of the deals the White Sox are contemplating pan out.

Lopez and Vice Presidents John Rigney and Chuck Comiskey are trying to land a first baseman, a left handed hitting catcher and a fourth starting pitcher.

The White Sox would like Roy Sievers of the Senators for first base and Clint Courtney, also of Washington, as the left handed hitting catcher behind the No. 1 receiver, Sherman Lollar. As for a fourth starting pitcher, the White Sox haven't divulged whom they are after.

With Lollar catching, Luis Aparicio at short, scrappy Nellie Fox at second and Lary Doby in center field, the White Sox are strong down the middle." However, they are hurting at the corners—first and third base.

Unless they obtain Sievers, Lopez will have to choose between the veteran Walt Dropo, who hits the long ball but not often enough; and three rookies, Norm Larker, Ron Jackson and Jim Marshall at first.

At third, Bubba Phillips, who did most of his playing for the White Sox last season when he hit .273 as an outfielder, is getting the nod over veteran Fred Hatfield and Sam Esposito, an infield reserve last year who can field but not hit.

Flanking Doby in the outfield will be Minnie Minoso in left and Jim Rivera in right. Rivera, however, is among those being offered for bait in the proposed Washington deal.

Rookie Jim Landis, who hit .429 at Colorado Springs last season and then was sent to Memphis where he had a batting average of .257, has been hitting the ball hard and probably will stick along with Dave Philley and the veteran Ron Northey as outfield reserves.

Rookie Has Chance

Another rookie, Earl Battey, formerly of Toronto, could wind up the No. 2 man to Lollar if Chicago doesn't get Courtney.

For his pitching "big three" Lopez will have southpaws Billy Pierce (20-9) and Jack Harshman (15-11) and right hander Dick Donovan (12-10). The fourth pitching spot is wide open with Bob Keegan (5-7), Jim Wilson (13-14) and Gerry Staley (8-3) the leading possibilities.

Dixie Howell, once rated the best relief pitcher in the league but who slumped to a 5-6 record last year, and the 42-year-old Ellis Kinder will lead the bullpen corps with Paul LaPalme, a southpaw, also a relief possibility.

Bonus pitcher Jim Derrington must be kept. Other pitching possibilities are Jim McDonald and Joe Dahlke.

WOLF'S Gives Credit to the Female of the Species

Leave it to a woman to know where a man can get a better suit for $55

Women are amazing creatures . . . you'd be surprised at what they know about buying men's suits. For instance, most of them know that one of the most sought-after fabrics for good hard wear is a fine, all wool sharkskin. They know that it gives rugged service, resists wrinkling. That's why this Edmoor sharkskin suit is such an outstanding value. Neatly tailored in a single-breasted, 3-button model, it has flap pockets, center vent; comes in medium shades of blue, gray or brown. It's a smart choice for men who want to look better, longer . . . and not spend a fortune doing it.

EDMOOR SHARKSKINS $55

OH, JANE! I wish Bill could dress like your husband — But we just can't afford nice suits like these.
Would you be surprised Helen, if I told you those suits only cost $55? They're Edmoors from Wolf's.
Bill, have you ever seen the Edmoor suits at Wolfs? They're so good - looking and only cost $55.
Sounds good, and I sure could use a new suit — Guess I better take a look.
This looks better than suits I've paid much more for . . . and this sharkskin should wear better too!
Hi, Helen . . . good news! I got a raise today. The boss said I look like a different man lately. Thanks to you and Edmoor!

Aerialist Is Seriously Hurt

PATERSON, N.J. (UP) — The aerialist daughter of famed circus clown Felix Adler was seriously injured Thursday night when she fell 25 feet from a rope during a performance of the Pan-American Circus at the Paterson Armory.

The 19-year-old aerialist, Mrs. Madeline Long O'Connor, plunged to the tanbark before a stunned crowd of some 500 spectators. She was rushed to Paterson General Hospital.

A hospital spokesman reported Mrs. O'Connor was in "fair condition" early today. She had fractured both her wrists and her pelvis, the spokesman said.

NANETTE FABRAY AND 'TO-BE' — Nanette Fabray and film writer-director Ranald MacDougall pose happily in New York after announcing their engagement. She won the TV Emmy for the second consecutive year as best comedienne.

Nanette Embarrassed Over Emmy Award

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Nanette Fabray has collected a new fiance, a new TV series — and an Emmy award that, she sadly sighs, has kicked up "an embarrassing fuss."

The pert-nosed singer arrived here from New York fresh from getting engaged to screenwriter Ranald MacDougall, signing for an NBC series and taking the "best comedienne" award for her work during the first half of last year's Sid Caesar television show.

But Nanette was met by the dull thud of a controversy in TV circles as to whether she should have accepted the Emmy because she left the show in June.

"All this fuss has been embarrassing," confessed Nanette. "I was flattered and thrilled to win. I was sure people would have forgotten my work on Sid's show.

"But to read all this to-do because I was on the show only half of last year! Pat Carroll of Caesar's show, who won the supporting Emmy, was on only part of last fall, less than I was.

"Actually the TV awards are set up cockeyed. The TV year begins in October and ends in June so the Emmy's should be judged for the season, not the caldendar year. I think they should launch the fall season with a bang by handing out the awards in September."

Nanette's Emmy might play cupid and bring her back to Caesar's show, now that Janet Blair is "divorcing" the comic. If an opportunity came to work with Caesar again, Nanette says, "I wouldn't pass it up, although I don't know whether I would want to do an hour show every week again."

Pointers From Durocher

Meantime she is busy with her own projects. She plays a lady pitcher who joins a male baseball team on NBC's "Kaiser Aluminum Hour" April 23.

"Leo Durocher has been teaching me how to pitch, slide and run, and I'm going to work out with the Philadelphia Phillies to get some pointers," she grinned.

"The toughest part will be catching—casually. But I've done hard things before. I had to really fence in a stage musical."

Come June she'll begin filming a TV series in which she'll play a calamity Jane-type. Sometime this year, "When we're both free from work," she and MacDougall will tie the knot.

"I'll continue my career because I'm not consumed with ambition—I work because I have a good time doing it," she said.

Hospitals Ask State for Money To Help Charity

HARRISBURG (UP)—Pennsylvania's 180 state-aided community hospitals have asked the Legislature for almost $34-million in appropriations for the next two years to help defray the cost of charity patient care.

The request was made Wednesday night before the joint Senate-House appropriations committees reviewing Gov. George M. Leader's budget by James C. Kirk, Pottsville, incoming president of the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania.

The figure is about $10-million more than provided in the governor's budget.

Kirk said $29,500,000 of the request would cover $10.50 per day for a ward patient, although the average daily cost in the hospitals last year was $14.08. He said the hospitals would try to raise the difference by raising money locally for charity care.

Another $4,400,000 would be used, he said, for operation of clinics.

A delegation headed by Kirk also asked for $3-million to help train student nurses, compared to that $2,150,000 in the administration budget.

Others attending the meeting were Robert W. Gloman, Wilkes-Barre; Raymond F. Hosford, Philadelphia; Webster S. Kohlhaas, Harrisburg; Robert A. Kumpf, Lewistown, and T. K. Leinbach, Reading.

More Cuts In Budget Proposed

WASHINGTON (UP)— House economizers today pressed their attack on President Eisenhower's 2.8 billion dollar budget for the Labor and Health, Education and Welfare Departments.

They prepared dozens of amendments to cut deeper into the two department's programs for fiscal 1958.

The economy drive so far had cut 15.5 million dollars from the Labor budget. The House Appropriations Committee already had cut 20.3 million dollars from it.

The economizers also cut $3 million dollars in an 83-82 vote from the HEW Department in an opening attack.

But budget supporters predicted they would be able to slow down the economy drive and even restore some of the cuts.

At the same time, the economy drive was stopped cold in the Senate at least temporarily.

The Senate passed 42-21 a 1.5 billion dollar rivers and harbors bill including many senators' pet projects. The Senate made no cuts.

Other congressional news:

Disability: The President summoned congressional leaders to discuss an administration proposal for a constitutional amendment covering presidential disability. The proposal would permit a disabled president to hand over his powers temporarily to his vice president. Mr. Eisenhower said he wants to work out the details with the leaders before submitting it to Congress.

Civil Rights: Further action on the administration's civil rights bill halted until the House Judiciary Committee completed a formal report of approval. Rep. Kenneth B. Keating, committee ranking Republican said the delay was made to give southern opponents a chance to submit minority views. Some congressmen said the delay might mean death of the bill.

Grain: Rep. Merwin Coad (D-Ia) asked Congress to look into the Commodity Credit Corporation's sales of government-owned grain in the open market. Coad said "reliable sources" informed him that CCC sales are depressing grain market prices.

Young: The Senate has approved the nomination of former Civil Service Commissioner Philip Young to be ambassador to Holland. Approval came on voice vote.

Transfers Money From Disaster Fund

HARRISBURG (UP)—The General Assembly has approved legislation channeling $4,781,690 from the defunct special disaster fund to the state's General Fund.

The House approved the Senate originated bill, 182-1, with only Rep. Francis W. Bucchin (D-Northampton) voting against.

The money was left in the special fund established in September 1955, to finance flood damage in northeastern Pennsylvania. The fund was raised by an extra one-cent tax on cigarets, but the Assembly voted to divert the entire five cent per pack cigaret tax into the General Fund.

Biologist May Be In for Juniper Diet

DEADWOOD, S. D. (UP) — A big game biologist offers to settle an argument by eating juniper if he loses.

Les Berner of the state's game commission contended that deer do more damage to juniper bushes than rodents. Members of the Black Hills Gun Club disagreed.

Berner proposed the argument be settled by fencing off some deer nibbled juniper bushes. He promised to eat the juniper if it hasn't improved within two years.

Love-smitten Boy Is Blizzard Victim

AMARILLO, Tex. (UP)—A love-smitten 16-year-old boy who tried to walk 35 miles through a savage blizzard to see the girl he loved was found slumped on a barbed-wire fence, frozen to death, Thursday.

A cowboy, riding the fenceline in search of breaks caused by the storm, came upon the body of Chester A. Simpson, 16 miles northwest of Amarillo, which had been the boy's destination when he set out last Saturday.

Authorities said Simpson apparently had been overcome by the numbing cold and wind-whipped snow that piled up huge drifts over the week end.

Wearing a field jacket and dungarees, Simpson headed for a nearby highway to try to hitchhike a ride to Amarillo late Saturday afternoon after the approaching blizzard had cancelled a bus run from Boys Ranch, a home for homeless and wayward boys.

Cal Farley, director of the ranch, said Simpson had fallen in love recently with a girl in Amarillo and was determined to see her Saturday. The storm struck early that evening, apparently while Simpson was walking toward the city, 35 miles from Boys Ranch. The girl was not identified.

Even before the blizzard began, ranch staff members searched the area, seeking to find and dissuade Simpson from continuing his trip. The search was resumed, on horseback, Monday.

Then Thursday, cowboy Ralph Getts discovered Simpson's body draped over the fence, 19 miles from the ranch—the 48th victim of the vicious storm that raged across the great plains last weekend.

Love Stricken Man Tells All About His Love

COLUMBUS, O. (UP) — An unidentified love stricken man from Youngstown, who said his girl's affections had cooled, today hoped to rekindle the flame in a spectacular way.

A billboard will be erected on Route 18, near Youngstown, Friday proclaing: "Florence, I Love You."

The giant "love letter" will be signed: "Me."

The young lover engaged Ben Blinn, Columbus outdoor advertising man, to make the billboard in hopes the public message of his love would melt the heart of the object of his affections.

Blinn said he got the unusual commission in a letter from the young man, accompanied by $75 to pay for the sign. The letter explained Florence "had grown cool in her love for him."

It described Florence as the "sweetest, prettiest, most beautiful school teacher in the entire Akron district."

The letter asked that Blinn not disclose his name.

The sign was to be exhibited at the appointed spot on Route 18 for six months.

Gets State Post Paying $8,163

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Public Instruction Department today announced the appointment of Dr. Paul L. Glatzert, Wesleyville, as curriculum planning specialist in the department at a salary of $8,163 annually.

The department said Dr. Glatzert, former director of social studies in the Erie, Pa., city schools, assumed his new duties today.

World Population Is Growing At Fastest Rate in History

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP) — World population is growing at the fastest rate in history."

The population "explosion" already has wiped out many of the economic gains painfully achieved in underdeveloped countries since World War II. If it continues, many scientists believe that the specter of mass starvation soon will begin to stalk large areas of the earth.

"The speed up in world population growth since 1945 is one of the most ominous developments of our time," said Robert C. Cook, director of the Population Reference Bureau. "It jeopardizes the welfare and even the survival of hundreds of millions of people. It is as great a threat to mankind as the atomic bomb."

Cook said in an interview that "the human race has less time than some people think" to cut the fuse of the "population bomb."

"If present trends continue for 10 more years, some areas of the world will face disaster," he said.

Death Rate Drops

Not all experts agree with Cook about the imminence of the overpopulation danger. Some believe that development of new food resources could prevent widespread famine even if the world's population doubled. At the present rate of increase, it will do just that in less than half a century.

But there is general agreement among authorities that uncontrolled human fertility is a luxury which the world cannot much longer afford, particularly in the vast areas of Asia and Africa where two-thirds of the people already suffer from chronic hunger.

The sharp jump in population growth which now is causing alarm in world capitals is, ironically, a by-product of the post-war effort to raise living standards in underdeveloped areas.

It did not result from an increase in birth rates, which have tended to remain stable or decline slowly in most countries, but from a precipitate drop in the death rate as modern techniques of sanitation and medical care were introduced.

Ceylon An Example

Ceylon is a classic example of what is happening. Comparatively simple and inexpensive public health measures, such as DDT spraying to control malaria, have cut Ceylon's death rate virtually in half in the past 10 years. But the birth rate has remained at the traditional high level.

Result: Ceylon's population, after centuries of comparative stability, is shooting upwards at the rate of three per cent a year. This means that Ceylon, which already has 300 people per square mile, will double in population by 1980.

Egypt, Pakistan, Mexico, Brazil and British Guiana have been growing in population at a comparable rate.

The present population of the earth is about 2.7 billion. It has been increasing since World War II at an average rate of 1.5 per cent a year. This is approximately double the rate of increase which prevailed during the preceding century.

Thousand New Mouths

"This rate if growth means that the world has 100,000 new mouths to feed each time the sun rises," said Cook. "And most of them are in the countries least able to take on the added burden."

Could the problem be soived by a mass migration of people from overcorwded nations to sparsely settled regions of the world?

Cook replied by citing a 1954 United Nations study which said:

"There are no longer any great 'new worlds' with vast areas of good farmland to be had for the labor of clearing and plowing it. Some lands are still available to tralia for example—but they are generally less productive and more costly to develop."

Moreover, the UN study pointed out, most of the countries which have spare land (including the United States) have slammed the door on mass immigration from Asia or Africa.

"There is no use looking for bogus solutions," said Cook. "The problem is people having babies. Unless human sex mores can be changed quickly, too rapid population growth will bring ever-growing misery."

Next: The search for new birth control methods.

New Labor 'Code'

WASHINGTON (UP)—AFL-CIO special counsel Arthur J. Goldberg told a labor meeting with tongue-in-cheek Thursday that the AFL-CIO's ethical practices committee has written a new code entitled: "I can not get it for you wholesale."

Cost of College Education Goes Higher Yearly

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government says a college education today costs an average of $1,500 to $2,000 a year — about twice as much as in 1939.

Federal Education Commissioner Lawrence G. Derthick said average of $1,500 a year now to send an undergraduate student to a public college compared to about 747 in 1939. He said the cost of attending a private college now averages about $2,000 a year compared to about $1,000 in 1939.

Derthick based his estimates on a special study made by the U.S. Office of Educiation to determine how much a college education costs and who pays the bill.

The figures included living costs such as room, board and clothing as well as tuition fees, books and other college costs.

2 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Frank Altomare, who died 1 year ago today, March 29, 1956.
Sad and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all;
A bitter grief, a shock severe;
It was to part with one so dear.
We often say and think of you
And speak of how you died,
We think you could not say goodbye
Before you closed your eyes.
For all of us you did your best,
Oh, God, grant you eternal rest.
Sadly missed by Wife, Children and Grandchildren

In loving memory of our dear nephew, James Angelone, who died three years ago today, March 29, 1954.
Two small hands are resting
A loving heart is still,
A little nephew we loved is waiting
For us at rest over the hill.
Our memory of his dear sweet face
We'll treasure with us all of our days.
Sweetest child, too sweet to stay,
God took him home to show us the way.
Sadly missed by his Aunts and Uncles.

In loving memory of our dear grandson, James Angelone, who died three years ago today, March 29, 1954.
Loving memories never die.
As years roll on and days pass by
Deep in our hearts a memory is kept
Of one we loved and will not forget.
Friends may think we've forgot you,
When at times we seem to smile,
But oh they know our sorrow
Then our smile hides all the while.
We think of you in silence,
No eyes can see us weep,
But many silent tears are shed,
While others are asleep.
A smile, a tear, a thought sincere,
How often we wish that you were here.
Sadly missed by Grandfather and Grandmother.

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Thomas A. Matrakis, who died five years ago today, March 29, 1952.
He is gone but not forgotten
And as days, another year
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Friends may wish the wound to heal,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.
Sadly missed by Wife and Children.

Coal Firm Reports Increase

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UP)— Island Creek Coal Co. boosted its sales volume sharply in 1956 to a record 117,878,716 from 79,869,088 in 1955 and is aiming for another record this year, its president said today.

Raymond E. Salvati told stockholders in the annual report demand for soft coal was strong in 1956 particularly for electric utility, steel and export markets.

He said future demand will be great, especially from atomic power plants which eat up large amounts of coal.

Salvati said the company this year is looking for total sales volume of 20 million tons. In 1956 the company produced 14,782,405 tons from its own mines and sold 3,707,512 tons produced by others.

Consolidated net income for the company in 1956 climbed to 8,793,072, equal to 4.03 a common share from 6,161,076 or 3.17 per share in 1955.

Salvati said national production of bituminous coal in 1956 totaled 500 million tons, an increase of six per cent over the previous year, and predicted production this year will rise to 530 million tons.

He also told the shareholders recoverable reserves of coal on properties owned, leased or optioned by Island Creek are estimated at 560 million tons or enough to assure a life of 37 years at present production rates.

Westerns Are Taking Over Television Time

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) — Next season, pardners, will be the one in which TV goes thataway.

More than a half-dozen new Westerns are scheduled to sashay onto home screens in the fall to join up with such other oaters as Wells Fargo, Gunsmoke and Wyatt, you should pardon the indigestion Earp.

William Ewald

If you've watched any adult Westerns an adult Western is one which ends with the hero and the villan walking slowly towards each other from opposite ends of a long street accompanied by the mournful chords of a guitar, you know the language is a little different from adult easterns.

In the interest of more intelligent viewing, therefore, we have compiled the following lexicon of authentic Western terms to aid all you dudes:

Cowpoke — Punch administered to mooing animal.

A ranger — Fellow who writes music for show.

A Texas Ranger — Fellow who helps with internal revenue form.

Tall in the saddle — The hero [illegible] to sit down.

Ornery — Bestowed title. As in: "He received an ornery college degree."

White man speaks with forked tongue — You've got the peace pipe in backwards, Jerk.

Honest Injun — Train that runs on time.

Galoot — Sound made by hero when he drinks whiskey.

Crazy Galoot — sound made by comic sidekick of hero when he drinks whiskey.

Salud — Where a cowboy with a code in the node goes for a drink.

Amigo — I think I'll have a drink, too.

Shootin' Irons — Metal dice.

Rollin' Hills — The Hill Brothers have the dice now.

Six shooters — Six is their point.

Pass — They made their point.

Cut 'em off at the pass — If they make their point once more, drill 'em.

Vigilante — Wife of an uncle who keeps watch.

Stagecoach — Fellow who trains the actors.

Cheyenne — That Ann just won't talk to anybody.

Ol' paint — What they decorate sets with in low budget productions.

Needless Fears Cause Dread of Menopause

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Many women have a great dread of the menopause. They have heard many stories about it and feel that this physical change means the end of life itself. This just is not so.

The truth is that most women have little distress and a great many have none when going through the menopause.

As for being the end of life, let's look at things statistically.

Although the time this change begins varies, in almost every case it usually starts somewhere around the age of 50; at least between the late forties and the early fifties.

That means women generally can expect at least another 25 years of life beyond the menopause.

This physiological change actually means the end of only a single function — the capacity to bear children. It is a perfectly natural stage of a woman's development.

While this phase sometimes begins abruptly, it usually is a gradual process requiring a period of several years.

Believe it or not, some women are not even aware of the change which is taking place.

You have probably heard a lot about "hot flashes." This is a sudden rush of blood to the face, chest and neck generally followed by perspiration. But statistics show that only about 20 per cent of the women actually experience this "traditional" symptom of the menopause.

Menopause does not mean a mental breakdown, cancer, a heart disorder or any such thing. The nervous, depressed feeling some women feel during this phase of life usually is only temporary.

How you will react to this situation, of course, depends upon many things. Among them are your health, the way you interpret your symptoms, your economic and social position and your understanding of just what the menopause means.

Zsa Zsa to Keep Her Hair After All

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Zsa Zsa Gabor Thursday turned down a $100,000 offer to shave her head for a movie under threat that she might lose a four-week resort hotel engagement at Las Vegas, Nev.

The blonde actress was scheduled to become a female Yul Brynner this week for her role as Stalin's mistress in "Girls of the Kremlin."

However, Beldon Katleman, owner of the El Rancho Vegas, threatened Thursday to cancel the actress' contract if she showed up at the hotel bald for her engagement opening April 17.

"Vot could I do?" Miss Gabor said in her Hungarian accent. "Las Vegas said if I don not cut my hair they would hold me over for anozzer five veeks.

"So for that I'm keeping my hair. Besides, my mother (Mama Jolie Gabor) was on the telephone saying that she would disown me if I got the shave."

Miss Gabor said Universal-International Studios had offered her the $100,000 for shaving her head. She said, however, that she would make more money at Las Vegas by keeping her curly locks intact.

Doctors Shocked by Complacency Of Public Toward Polio Danger

(The second of three dispatches on the Salk Vaccine situation.)

By ROBERT E. JACKSON

NEW YORK (UP) — Doctors are shocked by the complacency of the American toward the continuing danger of polio.

The arrival of Salk vaccine did not mean the departure of polio from the American scene. Even in 1956, a "light" year, polio struck someone in this country every 5 minutes.

One out of four of these victims was an adult—a woman who no longer could care for her children, a man who ceased to be a breadwinner for his family. The rate of polio among adults is rising, and when it hits them, it hits hard.

Yet on March 1, five-sixths of the adults between 20 and 40 still had not bothered—or been able—to get even one shot of Salk vaccine. These 5 million persons could say that the risk was not great, but the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis warns.

Millions of children and adults are as open to the terrors of polio today as if Dr. Salk had never existed."

On March 1, three-fourths of the high-school age youths in the United States, many of them dismissing polio as a kid's disease, had failed to take the first step toward protecting themselves against the possibility, however remote, of a lifetime in a wheelchair or an iron lung.

These people cite a variety of reasons—Just haven't got around to it," "Why should I pay $3 or $5 a shot while others get them free?" "There's a shortage of vaccine in my community." "I thought it was only necessary for the children," "I didn't know polio was any longer a problem," "I was waiting to see after all that bad vaccine trouble a couple of years ago, if it's really safe."

To a degree, the public can plead that its apathy be pardoned. A look at the stories and pronouncements of two years ago shows such phrases as, "There will still be polio—this year... diptheria and typhoid used to kill far more people—before they were brought under control...end of a long fight..."

Headlines, based on the statements of polio fighters, asked, "What next?" as if the battle were over. Then the first new warnings of the continuing peril went unheeded.

This winter, President Eisenhower himself led the appeal for everyone under 40 to line up for Salk shots—only 2 per cent of polio cases occur after 40. Singer Elvis Presley came to New York and took a shot hear d'round the teen age world.

The American Medical Association ended two years of cautious study and waiting by urging its doctors to join local officials in an all-out campaign.

"It seems to me," said Dr. David B. Allman, president of the AMA, "that we face a situation where we have sacrificed thousands of lives, years of research and millions of dollars in search of something that after we found what we were looking for, we refuse to use it."

Gunnar Gundersen, chairman of the AMA board of trustees, asked, "Why does this lethargy exist when only a few months ago there was a hysterical demand for the vaccine?"

Now, although some faces are as pink as the vaccine due to the temporary shortage which developed in mid-campaign, the drive is clicking.

United Press Newspictures Win Awards

WASHINGTON (UP)—The National Press Photographers Association has cited United Press Newspictures for "leadership in establishing news pictures in their proper perspective in modern communications."

That was one of the honors handed out Thursday night to members of the photo-journalism profession at the Association's annual awards dinner. It was held in conjunction with the 12th annual NPPA convention.

Frank Tremaine, general manager of United Press Newspictures, accepted the citation for his organization.

It said:

"In recognition of many contributions to the field of photo-journalism through leadership in establishing news pictures in their proper perspective in modern communications; of its steadfast encouragement and material assistance to NPPA in helping press photographers to attain greater technical competence and wider community appreciation of their services in the public interest; and for its constant support of the freedom of visual information program of our society."

Fenders in Music

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Spike Jones said Thursday he will play an original musical score called "Hollywood Euophoneyia" on his new televisien show Tuesday. "The main sound in the arrangement is the clanging of fenders on the Hollywood Freeway," he said.

LIFE PAROLE ENDS — John Cacopardo, a ministerial student at Bloomfield, N. J., seminary, digs into his studies after receiving word from New York's Gov. Averell Harriman that he has been freed from lifetime parole restrictions. Cacopardo served 16 years for murder he says he didn't commit.

Adventists 'Different'

WASHINGTON (UP)—The average Seventh Day Adventist gives about 20 per cent of his income to the church.

This custom of "double-tithing" has made it possible for Adventists to support more schools, hospitals and foreign missions than any church of comparable size. And it has prompted other Protestants to take a respectful new look att his dedicated body of believers who long bore the label of "peculiar sect."

Adventists still are holding fast to the two doctrines which set them apart from other fundamenalis Protestant denominations. They believe that the second coming (advent) of Christ is near. And they observe the sabbath on the seventh day of the week—Saturday—instead of Sunday.

In recent years, however, Adventists have demonstraied there are other ways in which they are "different." For exan.ple:

—Their zeal for missionary effort has made the general conference of Seventh Day Adventists the fastest-growing major denomination in the world. In the past 10 years, membership of the church has approximately doubled and it now has about 1,100,000 members in 184 countries. In the United States, still the main center of strength, Adventists constitute less than one per cent of the total church membership. But they send out nearly 10 per cent of the foreign missionaries.

—Adventists give more liberally to the church than members of any other major denomination. Contributions in 1956 averaged $202 per member for every man, woman and teen-age child on the church rolls. Per capita giving by all Protestants was less than $50.

The Rev. W. B. Ochas, vice president of the general conference and head of the North American Division of the church, sees a direct link between Adventist beliefs and the church's record in missions and giving.
